ADOPTED BY A DACHSHUND

Buttons, a 4-week-old kitten, could have ended up in the pound like most stray cats, but she was lucky. Taken home by Andy Oddo, 11, of Fremont, Buttons touched the heart of the family's dachshund, Fraulein Schnitzell Kebschell, who promptly adopted her. Buttons and Schnitzy are constant companions, daily disproving the old adage that it is the nature of cats and dogs to fight.

Mass Arrests In New Irish Rioting

Authorities Employ Old Detention Law

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Mobs stormed through the streets today in a new outbreak of violence between majority Protestants and minority Roman Catholics. The government reacted by authorizing internment without trial for the first time in 10 years. Overriding warnings of civil war, Premier Brian Faulkner also banned most parades in a drive against the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA), which is committed to reuniting Northern Ireland with the Irish Republic to the south.

Police reported that an army sniper shot and killed a young boy preparing to throw a gasoline bomb, bringing to five the number of persons who have died in the rioting today and during the weekend. One was a British soldier. In Belfast and Londonderry, mobs continued to erect barricades of burning cars and buses, clashing with police and British troops.

By 1 p.m. (8 a.m. EDT), more than 300 persons had been arrested, most of them suspected IRA leaders and members, security forces said.

In the Falls Road area of Belfast, a constant trouble spot, girls in skin tight jeans and hot pants filled empty pop and milk bottles with gasoline to use as bombs and sat on the curbs whittling broomsticks into pinpoint javelins.

Children stayed home from school, organizing themselves into small groups which went from door to door collecting furniture to pile on barricades. Workers quit work to man them.

By mid-afternoon, most street corners had stockpiles of gasoline bombs. A group of six girls hijacked a milk truck and turned it into a barricade. Someone got hold of a bulldozer and used it to knock over trees and streetlights as roadblocks.

"We'll hold out here forever," one man shouted.

"Release our men," a young girl cried.

A pall of black smoke hung over Belfast's skyline. An army spokesman said there were fires "pretty well everywhere."

Under the internment law, last in force in 1961, suspects can be held indefinitely without trial pending an official decision to try or to release them. The very word internment is an emotional symbol in Northern Ireland of the enmity between the two religious groups.

"The main target of the present operation is the Irish Republican Army, which has been responsible for recent acts of terrorism, and whose victims have included Protestant and Roman Catholic alike," Faulkner said in announcing the internment law.

He said the new moves, plus stationing of 2,000 more British troops in Northern Ireland, were aimed at "organizations which murdered in cold blood, created situations which have led to death or injury to people quite uninvolved in the disorder, maimed numerous people including young children, and put at risk the jobs and the whole future of entire communities."

In Dublin, Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Catholic Irish Republic condemned the internment order as "deplorable evidence of the political poverty" of Northern Ireland's politics.

He offered accommodation in army camps in Eire for dependents of internees. Former Local Government Minister Kevin Boland termed the order "a declaration of war in our country." He demanded the Dublin government break off diplomatic relations with Britain over the "British aggression."

Faulkner's ban on most parades will last six months. It will include Thursday's planned march of the apprentice boys of the Protestant Orange order in Londonderry, an annual event commemorating a Protestant victory over the Catholic King James II in 1689.

The addition of 2,000 troops brought British army strength in Northern Ireland to 12,000 men.

Political leader Eddie McAteer reacted to the announcement with a warning. "The next step is curfew and total martial law," he told newsmen. "Now we have inevitable full-scale Anglo-Irish war."

Miss Bernadette Devlin, Roman Catholic member of Parliament for mid-Ulster, said she was returning to Northern Ireland today to help "organize resistance" to the internment order.

She accused Faulkner of "deliberately escalating violence for means and ends best known to himself ... I think the situation will get worse rather than better."

From London, UPI correspondent Alvin B. Webb reports:

"Internment without trial gives the Northern Ireland government a powerful weapon to

'Homesick' Astronauts Are Happy To Be Back

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Happy to be back but a little homesick for the moon, Apollo 15's astronauts returned to the routine of life on earth today and underwent a medical exam before starting two weeks of reports on man's most productive lunar expedition.

"Boy, I'll tell you, it's really great to be back," said David R. Scott, the 39-year-old commander of the nation's fourth moon landing mission. "But that was a superfine trip and we really enjoyed it."

Scott, Alfred M. Worden, 39, and James B. Irwin, 41, free from the quarantine imposed on earlier lunar explorers, began their day at 9 a.m. EDT by reporting to the clinic at the Manned Spacecraft Center for detailed tests.

Physicians wanted to see if their long exposure to weightlessness had caused any physiological changes. Results of today's testing will be compared with tests made at Cape Kennedy before Apollo 15 took off July 26.

The astronauts returned home late Sunday night to a warm welcome from their friends, families and some of the people who made their 1.2 million mile journey possible.

They spent the night at their homes and returned to their regular routine on schedule today. After their medical checkup, the astronauts were to start a long series of debriefings covering all aspects of the 12-day flight.

The astronauts' extraordinary 171-pound collection of rocks and soil from the Apennine Mountain valley they explored for three days is safely in the Lunar Receiving Laboratory being prepared for analysis. The 42 bags of samples will be opened later this week.

The spacemen, well-rested and chipper after a good night's rest following Saturday's Pacific Ocean splashdown, flew to Houston from Honolulu and arrived in a rain storm. The weather didn't dampen the enthusiasm of the astronauts or the 5,000 persons out to greet them.

Scott and Irwin each gave their wives Hawaiian leis and embraced their children at planeside. Worden is divorced but he was greeted by his two daughters and parents.

Scott told the cheering crowd that he watched the bright, full moon as he flew home, "and as I looked out I felt a little homesick.

"If you go to some place as beautiful and fascinating as that, and you spend three very intense, interesting days, you really get attached to it, you really do," Scott said.

"And the Hadley-Apennine is a fascinating place. There is a lot there. Jim and I could have spent many more days there, gathering all sorts of things."

Irwin, who like Worden had shaved his beard after splash-

Indictment Of Shipe Challenged

A deputy Marin County public defender has challenged the district attorney's intention to seek a grand jury indictment tomorrow of a Fairfax man accused of the murder of his estranged wife.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales termed the move "ridiculous," and said he will proceed to seek the indictment of Edwin Evan Shipe II, 49, accused of murdering his wife, Barbara P. Shipe, 47, July 13 on the steps of her hillside Fairfax home.

Deputy Public Defender Frank J. Cox wrote each of the 19 members of the grand jury Friday, asking them either to refuse to listen to Bales's case or to allow Cox to be present to cross-examine any witnesses presented by Bales.

Bales said today he "would trust the grand jury would pay no attention to his request... he has no right to appear at all, even to look at witnesses, much less to cross-examine them."

Bales said he takes all homicide cases to the grand jury because it provides a more direct route to the trial court and it's faster.

A preliminary hearing has been set in municipal court for Thursday for a judge to decide if there is enough evidence to hold Shipe for trial in superior court.

A grand jury indictment would eliminate further municipal court proceedings, including the preliminary hearing, and immediately transfer the case to superior court.

In his letter, Cox asked the grand jury not to "attempt to preempt the usual functions and processes of the criminal courts."

He said the grand jury should "solicitously guard an accused's basic rights to confront his accusers and present his own defense."

"This can best be done in an open, public courtroom, with trained lawyers and a trained judge deciding the case after hearing both sides," he wrote the jurors.

Neither Cox nor Bales had ever heard of a request similar to Cox's, they said today, but Cox added that the grand jury is "not under any obligation to hear any one case."

Bales said he didn't know if the jury could refuse to hear a case, but "they can refuse to indict," he said.

Value Of Dollar In Deep Drop

LONDON (UPI)—Fears about possible devaluation of the U.S. dollar sent the dollar plunging to its lowest level in 22 years on the Frankfurt money market today. Gold rocketed $1.38 an ounce today in London to $43.94, the highest since the start of the free market in March, 1968.

The rate in Frankfurt of 3.4242 marks to the dollar was the lowest since 1949 when West Germany revalued the mark upwards for the first time after World War II. The U.S. currency also was at a low ebb in London, Paris and Zurich.

The London gold price meant it was now nearly $9 an ounce higher than its official monetary price of $35 an ounce set by the United States in 1934. In Zurich, gold soared to $43.70 to buy and $43.90 to sell.

The gold price had reached up to $45 an ounce in Europe in late March, 1968, at a time when the key London market was closed for two weeks because of the international monetary crisis. The previous high since then was $43.821-2 in March, 1969, when political and economic tensions in France prompted a rush to buy gold.

World money markets have been rocking since France took steps last Wednesday to halt the flow of dollars and to stop speculation of a higher valued franc.

Dealers in the free gold market today said turnover was "substantial" and that paper money uncertainties based on the future values of European currencies and the dollar prompted the buying.

Exchange markets started highly nervous trading today and rates moved erratically.

The dollar slumped against the West German mark to its lowest yet and was buying only 3.4275 marks. This compared with 3.6600 marks, the internationally agreed dollar value for the mark before it broke away from fixed exchange rate limits and was "floated" in the May currency crisis.

The dollar's weakness started the pound climbing and pushed the dollar close to its London "floor" of $2.4200. Dealers quoted the pound at $2.4194 and then moved it slightly lower to $2.4191.

Burton's Park Bill Wins Backing Of Citizen's Panel

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — The citizens committee that sparked legislation to create a Golden Gate National Recreation Area today favored the pending bill by Rep. Philip Burton, D-Fifth District, over one by Rep. William F. Mailliard, R-Sixth District.

A spokesman for the People for a Golden Gate National Recreation Area, testifying before a congressional subcommittee, at the State Building here, said Burton's bill "will establish a bigger and better park."

The spokesman, Amy Meyer of San Francisco, said Burton's bill would allow "substantial acquisition of ranch lands in Marin County," while allowing sell-back and lease-back. These provisions would allow the ranch lands to remain in open space at minimum cost, she said.

Mailliard's bill, however, required that each parcel be bought or exchanged, she said. "It means much less land for the same money," Mrs. Meyer told the committee.

She also praised Burton's bill for its inclusion of adjacent submerged land and water areas up to one-quarter mile off shore.

Her statement for the citizens committee, which includes eight Bay Area legislators and officials of the Sierra Club, also praised Burton's bill for requiring a master plan of the recreation area in Marin and San Francisco. Mailliard's bill "has no master plan and no form for

Nixon Signs Bill To Save Lockheed's Life

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon signed the bill to provide a $250 million government guaranteed loan to financially troubled Lockheed Aircraft Monday.

He also signed legislation providing $1 billion to set up special employment opportunities at the state and local level —a move which the administration hopes will create 150,000 jobs.

The President signed both bills without any special ceremony. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen Nixon was very pleased that Congress had enacted the controversial Lockheed bill and hoped it would save "a great many jobs."

In a statement accompanying the signing of the Emergency Employment Act, the President said funds would be made available to the states and localities within three weeks "so that hiring may begin at once."

"By Labor Day, the first group of unemployed people should be working in the jobs financed by this act which will eventually help more than 150,000 jobless persons," Nixon said in a statement.

He added: "The jobs which will be made available under this act will be real jobs —jobs which promise future career opportunities. At the same time, the work performed by participants in this program will help meet some of our needs in such fields as environmental protection, health, education, public safety, housing, recreation, public facility maintenance and rural development."

He noted that cities and counties of more than 75,000 population will chiefly benefit from the program and officials in these communities will serve as planning and dispersing agents.

The Lockheed loan guarantee authority will expire Dec. 31, 1973. Nixon said that he is setting up an emergency loan guarantee board to administer the Lockheed financing as required by the legislation.

He noted the board would consist of Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, the chairman of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System and the chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

State Sues To Force Speedup In Bolinas Sewer Construction

By PAT ANGLE

A suit by the state attorney general's office to compel the Bolinas Community Public Utility District to speed up completion of its portion of a proposed $8.1 million sewage treatment and collection system for Bolinas and Stinson Beach was filed today in Marin Superior Court.

The action charges the utility district with failure to comply with a timetable for construction of a sewage treatment plant, a schedule set by the attorney general's office in February, and could cost the utility district up to $6,000 in penalty fines for each day it fails to adhere to the schedule.

The schedule calls for completion of the entire project, including treatment facilities and collection systems, by Sept. 12, 1972.

Brought at the request of the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board, the attorney general's action seeks a permanent injunction to prevent Bolinas from continuing to dump raw sewage into Bolinas Lagoon. It asks that the discharge of wastes, which has been under fire from the state for almost 10 years, be abated as a public nuisance.

In June of 1970, the utility district received a cease and desist order on the sewage dumping from the water quality control board and a time schedule for construction of the proposed sewage treatment facility was established at that time. Although the project is being built in conjunction with the Stinson Beach County Water District, Stinson Beach, which dumps its waste into a septic tank system, it has not been under pressure from the state to cease its discharge operations.

When the utility district failed to live up to the time schedule set by the state last June, the water board revised the timetable. The attorney general's office is now charging the district has failed to live up to the terms of the new schedule.

For example, the action alleges the district failed to file engineering plans and specifications for the treatment plant with Marin County supervisors

A-Bomb Memorial

NAGASAKI, Japan (UPI)—Some 6,000 persons assembled at the Peace Memorial Park today to observe the 26th anniversary of the atomic bombing in this oldest port city in Kyushu, Japan's southern most main island.

The memorial ceremonies, opened by Deputy Mayor Soichi Urabe, were followed by a one-minute silent prayer by 420,000 city residents at 11:02 a.m. the time the world's second A-bomb exploded 26 years ago.

The first A-bomb was dropped over Hiroshima on Aug. 6, 1945.

At the ceremonies, a new list of 2,035 A-bomb victims was placed before the cenotaph built near the center to the bomb explosion. This increased the number of the known victims of the bombing to 43,736 in the city.

Corona In Hospital

YUBA CITY (UPI)—Mass murder suspect Juan V. Corona, who suffered a heart attack in his jail cell recently, was in Sutter County hospital Sunday for observation after complaining of chest and head pains.

Sheriff Roy Whiteaker said the 37-year-old farm labor contractor, charged with slaying 25 transient field hands along the Feather River, first complained of chest pains on Friday.

He said Corona was taken to the hospital and then returned to the Yuba County jail in Marysville after nothing was found wrong.

On Saturday, Whiteaker said, Corona complained of head pains and he was returned to the hospital where "doctors decided to keep him and run some more tests."

Corona recently pleaded innocent to a 25-count grand jury indictment charging him with killing transients and burying their bodies in orchard land during May and early June.

SANTA BARBARA (UPI)—Two expensive homes were destroyed Sunday night as wind-driven flames raced up steep canyons charring at least 130 acres and forcing the evacuation of scores of homes below Los Padres National Forest.

The foothill fire, raging on several fronts on the city's northern boundary, was expected to be contained sometime today barring a resurgance of winds and a drop in humidity.

Flames leaping up 75-feet high ate through dense chaparral, racing within 100 yards of a large Episcopal monastary. City and county firefighters diverted the fire from its path and members of the religious order watered down the area.

"Those that weren't spraying were praying," said Father Raymond Gill of the Monastery of St. Calvary.

The coastal community, hit by a sudden dry spell and low humidity from dry Santa Ana winds, has been struck by a "rash" of arson-caused fires during the last few weeks, said a city fire spokesman.

Quake In Iran

TEHRAN (UPI)—An earthquake of medium intensity shook a large area of Iran northeast of Tehran today, the government said.

There were no immediate reports of death or injury.

The announcement said the tremor's epicenter was in the Caspian seacoast area about 125 miles northeast of the capital.

Orbiting Earth

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union launched another unmanned Cosmos sputnik into egg-shaped earth orbit, the Tass news agency said today.

Tass said Cosmos 433 "carries scientific instruments for space exploration," about all the data the Soviets ever give on a Cosmos mission.

It said the Sputnik was orbiting earth at a maximum distance of 155 miles and a minimum distance of 95 miles on a path angled 49.5 degrees to the equator.

The dispatch omitted the usual report of how long each orbit takes.

Draft Status

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Even if Congress revives the draft when it returns to work in September, the Army would not be able to begin drafting men again until October, according to Pentagon officials.

The delay would be caused, they said, by administrative problems. But even the October start-up is in doubt because the draft extension proposal still must clear a filibuster and continuing end-the-war debate when the lawmakers take it up again.

The draft expired June 30, but the Army's situation is far from critical. It has 1.1 million men under arms and its plans call for an overall reduction to about 900,000 by next June.

For the 12-month period beginning July 1 the Army figured it needed 200,000 new men. With no draft in July, August and September, it stands to fall 30,000 men short of that goal. But some of that slack will be taken up by the planned reductions.

Backs Big Test

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, says the scheduled nuclear test in the Aleutian Islands is so safe he would be willing to expose his family and friends.

Opponents of the five-megaton underground explosion planned this fall claim that it might trigger earthquakes and tidal waves, or emit radioactive materials harmful to the environment.

But Seaborg said Sunday the Amchitka test would be safe.

"I feel that so strongly that I would be willing to go up to Amchitka myself (with) my family, my friends," he said.

Seaborg was interviewed on NBC-TV, Meet the Press.

He denied that the commission was failing to safeguard the environment from nuclear reactors to generate electric power.

The U.S. court of appeals for the District of Columbia has ordered the commission to strengthen its licensing procedures for nuclear reactors.

Connally Stock

DENVER (UPI) — Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., predicted Sunday Secretary of Treasury John B. Connally, a registered Democrat, will be President Nixon's running mate in 1972.

Harris said Connally "is not my kind of Democrat."

He said the former Texas governor authored "the awful economic policies of the Nixon administration." Nixon is more likely to choose Connally as a running mate next year than Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, Harris said.

The Oklahoma Democrat is the latest to announce an interest in the Democratic presidential nomination. He visited Denver to seek support last Wednesday, and made his remarks about Connally in an interview broadcast Sunday on KOA-TV.

Ex-Police Chief's House Burglarized

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Burglars took an undetermined amount of cash and other valuables from the home of Tom Reddin during the weekend.

Police said the thieves entered the home through an unlocked side window Saturday night. Reddin, a television news commentator, is former police chief of Los Angeles who initiated a massive antiburglary campaign while in office.

Back from man's longest exploration of the moon, Apollo 15's astronauts Alfred M. Worden (upper left), David R. Scott (upper right) and James B. Mistrial In Newton Case

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—Huey Newton's manslaughter trial jury deadlocked, 11-1, and the Black Panther party leader says that shows "that with at least one black person on the jury, there is at least one fair person on the jury that will grant me a fair trial."

Newton, smiling broadly and with his arms folded across a black leather jacket, also told newsmen Sunday: "a hung jury keeps me out of jail."

There was one black woman on the jury but how she voted was not made public. Nor was the court told whether the jury's majority voted for acquittal or conviction.

Charles Garry, the defense attorney, expressed "keen disappointment" that his client was not acquitted of a charge he killed patrolman John Frey during a shootout between Panthers and Oakland police.

"This shows that racism permeates through the courts and there is no question but that Black Panther members, especially the minister of defense, cannot get a fair trial." Newton, the party's cofounder, is its minister of defense.

Prosecutor Donald Whyte left the courtroom without comment and with a tight expression on his face.

Judge Harold Hove, who declared the mistrial after six days of fruitless deliberations, returned the case to the Alameda County criminal calendar and set Tuesday for a hearing on further action.

The mistrial was declared after Mrs. Yae Yada, a Japanese-American housewife who served as foreman, replied to the judge that "we stand and have been standing 11-1."

Judge Hove, who had instructed her not to say which way jurors leaned, then asked if further deliberations would do any good.

"Only if you could inject something new," she answered.

That was Newton's second trial as the result of the 1967 shootout. He was convicted of voluntary manslaughter during the first one but an appellate court set aside that decision since the trial judge failed to instruct jurors that unconsciousness was a complete defense.

Newton testified at both trials that he was unarmed when Frey insulted him, pushed him to the ground and shot him in the stomach. He declared he blacked out and remembered nothing until he woke up in a hospital where he was arrested.

The prosecution contended Newton was armed with a 9mm luger and that when that jammed, the Panther grabbed Frey's 38-caliber pistol and shot the patrolman. Neither gun has ever been found.

In the 1968 trial, Newton was sentenced to from two to 15 years. Before being released on $50,000 bail because of the appeals court decision, he served almost two years, counting the 11 months before getting to the first trial.

Sadat Said Hopeful Of Mideast 'Pentagon Papers'

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat hopes there will be an American sequel to the "Pentagon Papers" that will reveal U.S. involvement in the Middle East conflict, the semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said today.

In Jerusalem, Prime Minister Golda Meir said Israel will continue to resist efforts by outside powers, including friendly nations, to dictate terms for a Middle East peace settlement.

Al Ahram said Sadat told the newly elected Central Committee of the Arab Socialist Union Sunday: "The conscience of the American people will awaken when the facts of the Israeli aggression against Egypt and the American role in it and the secrets of American aid to Israel are exposed.

"I hope that a courageous American will come forward and reveal the documents of this case as Dr. Ellsberg did when he exposed the facts of the American intervention in Vietnam."

Sadat said in a three hour speech to the committee that the United States should define its position in the Middle East conflict. This definition, he said, will "spell the difference between peace and war."

He repeatdd his earlier assertions that the Arab-Israel conflict must be resolved this year, either by war or peace, and declared: "The battle is coming, there is no doubt."

Mrs. Meir said in a speech after briefing her cabinet on a week of talks with U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco that Israel would not give in to outside pressure to soften its negotiating stance.

"It is difficult for a small people to say no to a big power, but when it is dangerous to say yes we say no," she said. "We do not relish differences with our best friends, but we argue despite our friendship.

"Israel does not want war but will not accept any conditions forced upon her."

Israeli government officials said Sisco was unsuccessful in his attempts to budge Israel from its headline position on an interim peace settlement, including an insistence that no Egyptian troops cross the Suez Canal if it is reopened.

Soviet Union And India Sign Pact

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The Soviet Union and India signed a 20-year friendship and cooperation treaty today pledging to consult on "appropriate effective measures" if either is attacked. It was seen as a show of solidarity in the face of India's deteriorating relations with Pakistan.

Indian Foreign Minister Sardar Swaran Singh said, however, "It is not aimed at any third country." He said he hoped to sign similar treaties with other nations in the region.

Singh presented the treaty to Parliament two hours after he and Soviet Foreign minister Andrei A. Gromyko signed it. Singh told Parliament it would "provide a stabilizing factor in favor of peace, security and redevelopment not only of our two countries but the region as a whole."

Gromyko said: "We in the Soviet Union attach great importance to it."

(Diplomatic observers in Moscow said the terms of the treaty set up a relationship between the Soviet Union and a non-Communist state unprecedented since World War II. Moscow Radio and the news agency Tass announced the signing to the Russian citizens.)

A key section of the report said "Each high contracting party undertakes to abstain from providing any assistance to any third party that engages in armed conflict with the other.

"In the event of either party being subjected to an attack or a threat thereof, the high contracting parties shall immediately enter into mutual consultations in order to remove such threat and to take appropriate effective measures to ensure peace and the security of their countries."

The treaty extended well beyond the sphere of mutual defense, however, to embrace the field of all-around diplomatic consultations such as the Soviet Union has had only with France and Canada among western countries.

It covered bilateral cooperation in trade, transportation and communication development and promised that both nations would consult on international questions of significance to both.

Following the initial 20-year period, it provides for automatic renewal for five-year periods unless one of the parties decides to withdraw from the agreement.

Diplomatic sources in New Delhi said the treaty does not commit Russia to any specific court of action if Pakistan should attack India, but it does throw the weight of Soviet support behind India at a time of increasing tensions with Pakistan.

India has vocally supported the East Pakistani rebels and criticized the Pakistan government for its crackdown on those seeking autonomy for the east wind. The east and west wings of Pakistan are divided by 1,000 miles of Indian territory.

Pakistan has accused India of border violations and of sending arms to the rebels.

Gromyko arrived in India Sunday on a hastily arranged official three-day visit.

U.S. Envoys Harassed In Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Russians have resumed harassment of U.S. diplomats in Moscow in apparent retaliation for vandalism against Soviet diplomats in the United States, a U.S. embassy spokesman said today.

Two cars belonging to two officers of the U.S. embassy were smashed early Sunday, leading to a strong protest by the U.S. embassy today to the Soviet Foreign Ministry, he said.

The cars were in a parking lot at 83 Vavilov Street, one of the residential compounds reserved for foreigners.

At 2:45 a.m. Sunday David Evans, a second secretary of the embassy, with an apartment on the eighth floor of the compound, heard noises of crashing glass from the yard below, an embassy spokesman said.

Looking out of his window Evans saw three men battering the two cars with lengths of pipe. He shouted at them and ran down the stairs to the yard the vandals jump into a Soviet-made car and drive off.

Ten other cars were parked on the lot but the only other one reported vandalized was that belonging to John B. Thompson, also a second secretary of the U.S. embassy.

After the incident, Evans and Thompson were driven to the U.S. embassy building about 10 miles away but the policeman guarding the embassy refused to accept their protest or telephone the police station.

Later in the day, several policemen showed up at the scene of the incident with photographers and fingerprint experts to investigate.

The harassment of American diplomats, newsmen and businessmen started last January after several Soviet diplomats and newsmen in the United States had been subjected to similar indignities by persons allegedly connected with the Jewish Defense League (JDL).

The Soviet Union has accused the American authorities of connivance.

Mill Valley police said that the boy, Neal Langerman of 5 Eton Way, rode his bicycle at 5:30 p.m. Saturday out of a driveway onto Underhill Avenue near Stanton Way into the path of a southbound car driven by Pamela Komp, 20, of 3 Linden Lane, Mill Valley.

The impact threw the boy over the car and he landed at the rear of the car, police reported.

Pope's Summer Home Is Well Worth Short Tour

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (UPI)—Popes have been cooling off in summer for five centuries in this little Alban hills town, just south of Rome.

Castel Gandolfo depends for much of its living on the tourist windfall which comes during the two months or so every year when the pontiffs are in residence.

Pope Paul VI arrived as usual in mid-July, and declared himself "very happy to be here amid this peaceful atmosphere and beauty of nature."

Even without the papacy, Castel Gandolfo is well worth a visit.

It perches on the rim of an extinct volcano, 400 feet above a lake of deep cobalt blue. Rome is a smudge on the horizon 17 miles away across the Tiber valley.

The crooked stone houses of Castel Gandolfo hang over the town's narrow streets as they have for centuries, with lines of washing strung between windows.

At the top of the time-worn volcano is the yellow-colored papal villa, with the domes of the Vatican astronomical observatory glinting on its roof.

Behind the villa are acres of some of the most splendid formal gardens in Europe, with geometric beds of box, red and pink begonias and heliotrope. There are fountains, mazes, hedges trimmed into all sorts of fanciful shapes and the brooding black cypress trees without which the view of the Roman compagna would be incomplete.

The public is never admitted here, can never see the remains of the Emperor Domitian's villa still existing in the papal gardens, or stand on the terrace of the papal villa with its grand view across to Rome.

This 132-acre estate—14.8 acres bigger than the Vatican itself—is reserved for the summer relaxation of the pontiffs. Much of it is given over to a model farm which supplies most needs of the Pope's kitchen in the Vatican.

Pope Paul apparently uses his stay here for reflection, to catch up with his reading and work on documents. When he arrived, he said he would spend "a nominal rather than a real holiday. There are so many things that require our attention."

Killer Of Marinite's Father Still Sought

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Police today were attempting to track down all burglars known to frequent the Marina area in an effort to find the person who kicked and stomped the 89-year-old father of a Marin woman to death.

The assailant, who apparently got less than $10 for his deed, killed George Cushman, who was mute since a throat operation, and critically injured his wife, Elinor, 75, in their apartment Friday.

Their daughter is Mrs. Jean Wiedenmayer of San Rafael.

Inspector Frank Falzon of the homicide detail said today that officers were investigating reports that had come in of any persons seen loitering in the area as well as those of known criminals.

He said that Mrs. Cushman remained unconscious today in a hospital but that her condition had not worsened, which he considered encouraging. Police hope to gain clues from her if she is able to talk.

Lt. Charles Ellis, head of the homicide detail, called the attack "one of the most senseless and unnecessary killings" in his memory.

He said that Cushman, who weighed 102 pounds, and his slightly built wife were incapable of putting up any resistance.

It was unknown whether their apartment was ransacked before or after the attack on the two elderly people.

Two Die In Golden Gate Span Leaps

Two persons leaped to their deaths yesterday from the Golden Gate Bridge and three others were persuaded not to in a macabre 24 hours that began shortly after midnight Saturday.

The bodies of the two who carried through their intent to die were recovered from the water.

Christine Anne Luna, 23, of Santa Clara, leaped from the bridge at 12:55 a.m. and William McClanahan, 45, of San Francisco, jumped at 10: 30 a.m., California Highway Patrol reported.

Miss Luna left her car near the north tower and jumped, officers said. She left no note, but her parents, according to police, said she had been despondent since being discharged from the Women's Army Corps two months ago.

Her body was recovered at 1:20 p.m. off Stinson Beach.

McClanahan also jumped near the north tower after leaving his car. He left no note, the highway patrol said.

Bill Wilson of Woodacre, fishing in a boat beneath the bridge, saw McClanahan jump and recovered the body, highway patrol officers reported.

A Marinite, Jeremy W. Krauss, 21, of 14 Corte Los Sombres, Greenbrae, was taken to Marin General Hospital for observation after bridge workers talked him out of jumping at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, according to the highway patrol.

Minutes later, workers talked 26-year-old Shirley R. Hanrick of San Francisco out of jumping. She was taken to San Francisco General hospital.

The fifth attempt, by Stanley E. Evans, 39, of Palo Alto, came just after midnight last night. Highway patrol officers said he was upset about family problems, but was talked out of jumping.

He was taken to Mount Zion Hospital in San Francisco.

Argument On Status Of Werber

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Frank Werber's attorney argued in State Appeal Court today that the former entertainment figure is a "classical mystic" and therefore should be exempt from the marijuana laws.

Terence Hallinan, arguing in Werber's appeal from a 1970 drug conviction in Marin County, said religious grounds used to exempt men from the draft should also be used to exempt them from drug laws.

Werber's claim that he used marijuana for religious purposes was rejected by Marin Superior Court and he was sentenced to six months in jail and fined for cultivating and possessing marijuana at his Sausalito home.

Hallinan told the three-judge panel that he agreed in Werber's case he was "not talking about an organized church or a long-established religion." But he said Supreme Court decisions have held that specific formal religious links are not necessary for conscientious objection.

Robert Granucci of the state attorney general's office, argued that the decisions on interpretation of the draft laws were being "distorted out of all proportions" when cited in arguing for exemption from criminal laws.

The court took the case under submission.

Werber, 42, was manager of the Kingston Trio and formerly operated a Sausalito restaurant.

Weber is also awaiting trial in Marin courts on narcotics and drug charges stemming from raids on his home last March and again in June. He is also awaiting trial in federal district court in San Francisco on a charge of being a convicted felon who possessed guns.

"But it is a weapon that can backfire. The threat of internment without trial, always a possibility under the Northern Ireland system, was one of the numerous issues that stirred up serious trouble in the province two years ago this month. It is an issue that Miss Devlin has used often in her defiant oratory in the province.

down, said he thought a lot during the flight about the thousands of people who worked on project Apollo to make it a success.

"I was thankful for the genius of man to be able to create such beautiful machinery, beautiful equipment; thankful for the people that carefully put it all together; thankful for the people that tested it; and last of all, thankful for the people on the ground that were helping us operate it.

"So without you, we could not have done it," Irwin said. "And I want to thank all of you from the bottom of my heart."

The three previous moon landing crews returned to the space center in special isolation vans and had to live in quarantine at the receiving laboratory for three weeks to make certain they picked up no germs that would be harmful to life on earth. U.S. health officials decided after Apollo 14 that the moon was germ free and the quarantine was no longer needed.

The spacemen have a news conference scheduled for 10 a.m. EDT Thursday.

Anti-Fraser Move Hit By Group

A Sausalito architect today called the current petition campaign calling for City Councilman Stephen A. Fraser's resignation a "shot in the back" and is trying to organize a counter effort.

Wayne Waddell said he talked to some 20 residents during the weekend and the group is considering circulating petitions in an effort to counteract a group of 10 Sausalito businessmen who are trying to oust Fraser.

"I feel it's really unfair for a bunch of businessmen to jump up and down while he's not even here to defend himself," Waddell said.

Fraser has been in Finland for two weeks and is expected to remain there another month. He is researching an article concerning governmental control of the environment, according to Waddell.

Two To Appear In Burglary Case

Two San Rafael men were to appear in Marin Municipal Court today in connection with their arrest Friday on suspicion of burglary.

Marin County sheriff's deputies said Mark Jefferson Lee, 22, of 100 Bayo Vista Way, Apt. 21, and Casey Lawrence Porter, 21, of 2008 Fifth Avenue, were arrested shortly after 5 p.m. Friday behind a 7-11 food store at 292 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia.

Four cases of malt liquor and 45 cartons of cigarettes were found hidden in bushes behind the store, deputies said.

Mother Of Angela In Marin Plea

Angela Davis's mother, Sallye Davis, described her daughter as innocent before a sympathetic audience of about 250 persons yesterday at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church in Marin City.

"Her only crime is an active struggle for her brothers and sisters and her fellow man," Mrs. Davis, a school teacher from Birmingham, Ala., said.

"I never dreamed 27 years ago when I gave birth to her that this could have happened. It's dehumanizing," Mrs. Davis said.

Her daughter is charged with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy in connection with the shoot-out last August at the Civic Center in which Judge Harold J. Haley was killed.

"Only a massive, nonviolent protest will free Angela. Let's free Angela, let's free (Ruchell) Magee, let's free all political prisoners," Mrs. Davis said.

Mrs. Davis received a standing ovation before and after she spoke from the group, mixed about evenly of blacks and whites.

Before the talk in the church, she met informally with the group at a reception. With her was another daughter, Fania Jordan, and Mrs. Jordan's 3-month-old baby, Angela.

the people who live here," she said.

She also criticized Mailliard's proposal to leave the Presidio at Fort Mason in San Francisco under Army jurisdiction. She predicted the Army areas would become "the subject of open ended negotiations" between the secretaries of the Army and the Interior. Burton's bill would transfer open areas of the Presidio to the Department of the Interior.

Also pending in congress is a third bill by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif. All three would include federal, state, San Francisco and private lands totaling 27,000 acres in a continuous chain between Olema across the Golden Gate and down San Francisco's ocean shoreline almost to the San Mateo County line.

Mailliard however, as reported Friday by the Independent-Journal, predicted the Nixon administration will propose elimination of the private lands north of Stinson Beach.

More than 100 persons were scheduled to testify today before five members of the subcommittee conducting the hearing at the Federal Building.

Several members of the Subcommittee on National Parks of the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee indicated they preferred having the Army continue its jurisdiction over the Presidio.

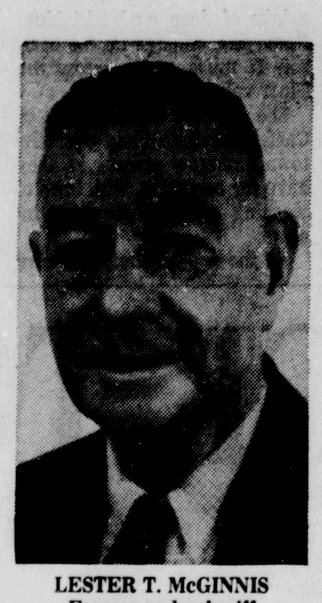
Chairman Roy A. Taylor, D-N.C. questioned whether the Department of Interior would "have enough personnel to do the policing job the Army does." Only one member of the committee, James Abourezk, D-S.D., disagreed, noting that he was a former resident of Marin. He said it probably would be cheaper to turn the job over to the Interior Department. "Parks are not a military function," he said.

Abourzek added that his experience in the military showed that the Army "would use 10 men where one would do."

Also testifying was Marin Supervisor, Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., who read a statement of his board endorsing creation of the recreation area.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto strongly preferred continued Army jurisdiction over the Presidio. If it were turned over to the Interior Department, he predicted, San Francisco would end up having to patrol the area.

Alioto said his position was "very close" to Mailliard's bill.



LESTER T. McGINNIS
Former undersheriff

OBITUARIES

Lester T. McGinnis Dies At 76

Funeral arrangements for Lester T. McGinnis, former undersheriff of Marin County, were pending today at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

McGinnis, 76, of 16 Pacheco Street, San Rafael died Saturday in a San Francisco hospital after a long illness.

He was born in Springfield, Ill. and served in the Navy during World War I. After the war he was a correctional officer at San Quentin prison. He joined the Marin County sheriff's department as deputy and became undersheriff in 1930, a position he held until 1943. He then went to work as a guard and later a machinist at Standard Oil Co. refinery in Richmond. He retired from that company in 1963.

He is survived by a daughter, Merrie G. Hunt of San Rafael; a sister, Fanny McGuire of Ferndale, Wash.; one grandson and one great grandchild.

by a June 15 deadline. The board of supervisors was to have approved the plans by June 22, under the schedule, but this was not done, the attorney general's office said.

The action also charges the utility district did not call for bids for plant construction by a June 25 deadline and complains the continued waste discharge from approximately 180 toilets in Bolinas is causing "bacterial concentrations. . .hazardous to the public health."

A spokesman for the Bolinas Utility District refused to comment on the attorney general's legal action against the district because the district has not yet received a copy of the suit.

A court hearing on the suit has not yet been set.

Meanwhile, two groups of Bolinas and Stinson Beach residents who oppose the massive sewage treatment proposal for a variety of reasons expressed satisfaction with the attorney general's action, pleased it will bring the entire matter to court.

Attorney Michael Sanford, representing one organization of residents, the Stinson Beach Project, today filed a motion of intervention in Marin Superior Court, asking to be allowed to participate in the attorney general's suit. And Sanford said the other group in opposition to the project, the Bolinas Future Studies Center, plans similar action later this week.

Both groups oppose the current plans for a waste treatment system because of the high cost of the proposal, the large capacity of the planned system and because, they say, wastes would end up in the ocean.

They claim the proposed system will serve 28,000 household toilets and thus pave the way for massive development in the two small West Marin communities.

Sanford welcomed the court action, saying it will force the matter to a court hearing where alternative plans for waste treatment for the area can be presented.

Hub Planners To Eye Regulating Large Animals

The San Anselmo Planning Commission, meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at city hall, will begin review of a proposed large animal ordinance to regulate the keeping of horses and cows in residential areas.

The ordinance has been on ice for years while the commission has been waiting for a volunteer citizens group to present recommendation.

No draft has been presented so tonight the commission will begin work on its own.

Th special session also will consider a revised traffic circulation plan for the 70-unit Parkside Apartments development to be located on Sunny Hills Drive at the end of Sonoma Avenue.

Townhouse Plan In Novato Due Study

The Novato Planning Commission will review a master plan for a 99-unit townhouse development, south of San Marin Drive and west of the Seventh Street extension, at 8 p.m. today at the Novato Community House.

The applicant, Anthony Sandbach, plans to construct the units on 22.5 acres.

Commissioners also will consider precise plans for 189 apartment units on 9.84 acres, southwest of Ignacio Boulevard and Alameda Del Prado, across from the Pacheco Plaza Shopping Center.

MARGIE JENSEN

Funeral for Margie G. Jensen of Novato, a retired registered nurse, will be at 8 p.m. today at the Redwood Chapel Funeral Home.

Mrs. Jensen, widow of Milt Jensen, a plumbing contractor, died Friday at a local hospital after a long illness.

She lived at 626 Trumball Avenue and had been a resident of Novato for 24 years. She was a native of Greensboro, Ind.

Surviving are a daughter, Bernyce Hall of Novato; two sons, Henry Boltres of Walnut Creek, Contra Costa County; and Col. J. J. Jensen of Novato; a sister, Hazel Francis of Novato; two grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Burial will be at Odd Fellows Cemetery, Sacramento.

MARIA EDWARDS

Private service was held at the bedside of Maria M. Edwards following her death Saturday in a local convalescent hospital.

Mrs. Edwards, 84, had been ill for several months. She was born in Darmstadt, Germany in 1887 and came to California when she was four-years-old.

She moved to Marin County 12 years ago living in San Rafael and Fairfax. She was a registered nurse and graduated from St. Luke's Hospital school for nursing in San Francisco in 1914. While she was a student nurse she was made night supervisor at the hospital.

Mrs. Edwards is survived by one daughter, Betty Franklin of Fairfax.

Her body will be cremated tomorrow at Mountain View Cemetery in Oakland, and buried in the family plot.

GALLEY SILL

Funeral for Galley G. Sill of San Anselmo will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

Sill, 85, of 19 Roger Avenue, died Saturday in a local hospital after a long illness.

He was born in Turkey Creek, Colo., but was reared on the West Coast. He worked in the construction of electric lines, a job that took him to 32 states, Canada and Mexico.

He went to work for Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in 1923 and retired from that company in 1951.

He was a member of Lake Erie Lodge No. 662 Free and Accepted Masons of Cleveland, Ohio; Marin Chapter No. 102 Royal Arch Masons and a retired member of Pacific Service Employees Association.

B52s Bomb Reds in DMZ

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. B52 bombers ranged over the border of Laos and the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) Sunday night and today in massive strikes against North Vietnamese troops believed ready to move into South Vietnam as U.S. troops withdraw.

At one point two U.S. F4 Phantom jet fighter-bombers protecting the B52 divebombed a North Vietnamese antiaircraft battery which opened fire on an unarmed U.S. Photo reconnaissance plane. The air force called the bombing a "protective reaction" strike.

North Vietnam has massed thousands of soldiers in areas around and in the DMZ. Both U.S. and South Vietnamese officials have warned the Communits may try to capture the four northern provinces of South Vietnam as U.S. troops withdrew.

They also warned that the Communists may launch major offensives below the DMZ late this summer to try to disrupt the Oct. 3 South Vietnamese presidential elections. U.S. Marines and many other American units have withdrawn from the immediate area.

The U.S. command reported today American troop strength dropped last week to the lowest level in five and a half years despite a tapering off in withdrawals. A communique said strength decreased from 226,300 to 224,400 during the seven-day period ending Aug. 5.

The drop of 1,900 was below the average 2,912 weekly reduction carried out during the past six weeks but brought troop strength to the lowest level since February, 1966, when there were 208,000 Americans in Vietnam. The peak strength was 543,000 in April, 1969.

The ground fighting in South Vietnam consisted only of minor skirmishes. U.S. infantrymen and artillery of the Americal Division, which still has men in the northern provinces, reported killing 10 Communists Sunday. South Vietnamese rangers, infantry and militia killed 38 more in a series of small clashes.

The U.S. command reported the B52s swarmed out of their Thailand bases Sunday night and early today. In one raid 20 of the bombers hit Communist targets in Laos with 600 tons of bombs. Three formations also struck along the DMZ and near the Laotian border of South Vietnam.

During the night the B52s hit a suspected Communist troop concentration within a mile of the DMZ and only four miles from rebuilt Fire Base Fuller. This morning they returned to the area and hit bunkers, antiaircraft sites, automatic weapons positions and suspected troop concentrations further west.

Communiques from Phnom Penh in neighboring Cambodia said Communist troops ambushed a Cambodian river patrol and two groups of army reinforcements 40 miles northwest of the capital, killing three government soldiers and wounding 29.

Refugees from the Cambodian Parrots Beak area complained that South Vietnamese troops looted their village, then stripped them of the blankets and food given them by Cambodian government officials as the villagers tried to return home. Field reports said the incident occurred near the village of Krol Ko on Highway 1.

The U.S. command said the attack by U.S. Phantom jets occurred Sunday six miles north of the DMZ and was the 48th of what the military command calls protective reaction strikes. Results of the bombing were unknown but there was no damage to the RF4 reconnaissance jet or to the escorting F4 Phantoms.

The U.S. command began reporting such air strikes into North Vietnam in May, 1970, and listed seven of them in the final eight months of last year. Military spokesmen said there were about 60 such strikes unreported between the Nov. 1, 1968 bombing half into North Vietnam and May 1, 1970.

American B52s pounded Communist targers sout of the DMZ and along the Laotian border Sunday night and early today. One of the raids was four miles north of the rebuilt Fire Base Fuller, which changed hands five times in late June after North Vietnamese troops overran the mountaintop outpost. It was later abandoned, then reconstructed by the South Vietnamese.

Military spokesmen reported light ground action in South Vietnam Sunday. South Vietnamese infantrymen and militia killed 20 Communists and captured five prisoners in three light clashes. Four South Vietnamese were wounded.

DISASTROUS PLUNGE — Dotted lines mark the 1,000-foot fall of the Harry Carson family on Mount Hood, Oregon, yesterday. Harry Carson Sr., 42, and Clinton, 12, were killed, while Carson's wife, Joanne, and Harry Jr., 13, were injured. The family was climbing the mountain when one of the boys slipped, fell, and dragged the others from the 10,000-foot level to a rocky area 9,000 feet high. The man at the right is at the 6,000-foot level on the mountain.

FAMILY DISASTER

Two Die In 1,000-Foot Glacier Fall

HOOD RIVER, Ore. (UPI)—An experienced mountain climber and his 12-year-old son died when the climber, his wife and two sons fell on Eliot Glacier high up on Mt. Hood Sunday.

Harry B. Carson, about 42, was pronounced dead on arrival after being airlifted to a local hospital about nine hours after he and his hiking family fell about 1,000 feet while descending from the summit of the 11,245 foot mountain —Oregon's highest.

His wife, Joanne, about 34, was taken by helicopter from the mountain next and she told Hood River hospital authorities she thought her 12-year-old son Clifton also had died of his injuries on the mountain.

The two boys were the last to be taken off the mountain and they arrived here by helicopter at 1:40 a.m. PDT today. Clifton was dead, and Harry Jr., 13, complained of head and back injuries but was hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

Harry junior said "My brother slipped, and I stopped to rest, but he slipped again.

"It knocked my dad over and that dragged me and my mom down, and we just went head over heels down the mountain."

Mrs. Carson suffered a broken leg and possible fractured pelvis but hospital attendants said she was in "pretty good" condition.

The boys were brought down off the mountain in an Army helicopter from the Ft. Lewis, Wash., specially trained rescue crew. The pilot CWO2 Lindsay Gow, who made the rescue in the dark, said, "I wouldn't do it again, but it wasn't too hard to come in because we had everything working in our favor.

"It was moonlit and there was very good coordination from the 15 to 20 people on the ground."

Gow said the biggest problem landing the large Huey helicopter was the slippery snow bank. "The helicopter kept sliding down the snowbank," he said.

The ground rescue party had taken the two boys about one-quarter of a mile from where the family fell to provide a better landing site.

The rescue was made at about the 9-000-to 10,000 foot level. Earlier attempts by a smaller civilian helicopter were unsuccessful because of the altitude and the difficult terrain.

They fell on an area known as the "chimney" which one of the rescue team members described as being "so steep you can stand on it and rest your elbows on the slope."

Bill Bryan, Portland, a member of the ground rescue party, said he was a personal friend of the Carsons and although the father had been climbing before the family members had only hiked and never had been climbing. Bryan said all four members of the family were tied together on the same rope and when they fell, they all went down together."

Carson was a resources assistant who headed the recreation department of the Parkdale Ranger District of the Hood River National Forest.

He lived in Parkdale, near the mountain.

Allen Cole, a contract helicopter pilot for the U.S. Forest Service, brought Carson and his wife down from the mountain and although he is a veteran of 5,000 hours of helicopter flying he described the rescue operation as "grim."

Nixon Weekend Trip Looks Like Kickoff

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Preskident Nixon's weekend foray into New England bore all the trappings of a presidential campaign kickoff.

The trip was nonpolitical, Nixon said with a wide smile at one point in front of the Nashua, N.H. city hall. And his public remarks were aimed more at foreign policy than partisan politics.

But the crowds were large and the Nixon campaign style was working at close to midseason form. He appeared happy and confident as he dwelled on what seemed to be his most captivating talking point —his forthcoming trip to China.

Where in previous weeks Nixon had stressed the need to end the isolation of China's peoples, during the weekend he added, "unless that is done, we will have a tremendous threat to peace."

In stops Friday at Manchester and Nashua, N.H. —in the state where the first presidential primary will be held next winter —the crowds were large and enthusiastic.

And the appearances in both Maine and New Hampshire appeared to be more than coincidental. Maine is the home state of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, the unannounced but leading possibility for his party's '72 presidential nomination.

In addition three other Democrats —Sens. George S. McGovern of South Dakota, Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Birch D. Bayh of Indiana —were operating in New Hampshire Sunday. McGovern is an announced candidate while Jackson and Bayh are considered possibilities.

And a potential threat from within Nixon's party —Rep. Paul N. McCloskey of California —planned to open his presidential campaign headquarters in Concord, N.H., today.

When he returned to the White House Sunday Nixon faced a week laden with foreign policy problems. He also will sign several bills passed before Congress went on its current recess, including the Emergency Employment Act of 1971 and the measure guaranteeing government backing to loans for Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, summoned back from Saigon, was expected to report to Nixon Wednesday.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler discouraged speculation that Bunker was recalled "specifically" to discuss the South Vietnamese election this fall, but the topic was expected to enjoy high priority treatment in the discussions.

The White House, insisting on its neutrality in the election, apparently feels it will be on the spot if election laws leave President Nguyen Van Thieu as the only choice on the South Vietnamese ballot.

Youths Arrested For Drag Racing

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Twenty-six policemen in patrol cars, aided by a helicopter, arrested 29 young persons early Sunday for illegal auto racing on a residential street in the Hollywood Hills.

Police said 35 other persons were given traffic citations. The pre-dawn raid followed numerous complaints of drag racing in the area.

Truck Plunge

SRINAGAR, India (UPI)—An Indian army truck plunged off a bridge over the Jhelum River 400 miles north of New Delhi Sunday, killing 21 soldiers and injuring eight others.

Horse Sickness Program To End

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Federal officials expect to complete this week the project of spraying 7 million acres in Texas and Louisiana to control mosquitos responsible for an outbreak of sleeping sickness in horses.

Dr. Francis J. Mulhern, associate administrator of the Agricultural Research Service, said more than 1 million horses had been vaccinated in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

The disease, Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE), has attacked horses in 11 south Texas counties after spreading into the United States from Mexico. Control programs were extended to neighboring states as a precaution.

Load Of Nerve Gas Leaves Okinawa

NAHA, Okinawa (UPI)—The 7,161 ton U.S. Navy transport McGraw sailed from Okinawa Sunday for Johnston Island with 1,885 tons of nerve gas shells.

It was the third shipload of the gas to leave Okinawa under what the military calls "Operation Red Hat" to remove the gas which the United States hopes to complete the project by the end of this year. It left 5,668 tons still on the island.

Council Due Bigger Budget

Ross Town Council will be presented a budget Thursday night that is larger than last fiscal year's, but provides an expected cut in the tax rate. The council will meet at 8 p.m. in the city hall.

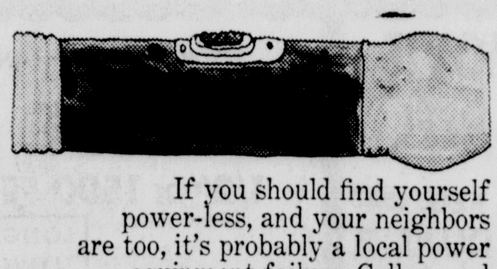
Councilman John H. Chase, head of the town finance committee, said the city's preliminary 1971-72 budget totals $204,346, requiring a tentative tax rate of $1.66 per $100 assessed valuation. Last year's total of $185,695 required a rate of $1.72.

Chase said most of the trim in the tax rate is due to an increase in property assessment rolls in Ross, as well as the countywide assessment revision from 23 to 25 per cent of fair market value.

More Helpful Hints from PG&E:

"Clip and Save"

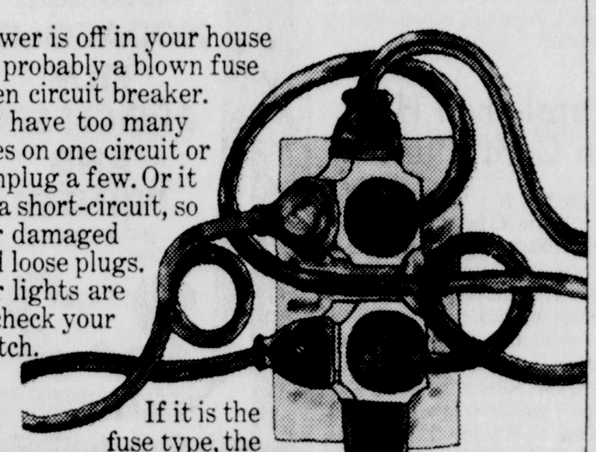
Every girl should know how to re-fuse.



If you should find yourself power-less, and your neighbors are too, it's probably a local power equipment failure. Call us and we'll restore service.

If the power is off in your house only, it's probably a blown fuse or an open circuit breaker. You may have too many appliances on one circuit or outlet. Unplug a few. Or it could be a short-circuit, so check for damaged cords and loose plugs.

If your lights are still off, check your main switch.



If it is the fuse type, the switch should be turned "off" before you replace a fuse.

Replace any fuse that has a smoked-up window or melted metal strip. (Make sure new fuse is the same amperage as the old one—no more, no less.)

If you have circuit breakers, follow the instructions on the panel. Many homes have both fuses and circuit breakers.

If your electricity is off for any period, don't open your refrigerator or freezer, so frozen foods will stay frozen longer. If the food starts to thaw, add dry ice.

Retarded 13-Year-Old Found Safe In Sierra

TRUCKEE, Calif. (UPI)—Dana Cooper, 13, a mentally retarded boy lost five days in the rugged Sierra mountains, smiled at rescuers Sunday after being found sitting barefoot in heavy underbrush only a mile from the campground where he disappeared.

"He shook his head, yes, when offered water and gave somewhat of a smile," said Jack Smith, an athletic director at Arcade Camp in Soda Springs where Dana had been staying with other retarded children.

The youngster, from Pinole, Calif., was put on a stretcher made of limbs, jackets and shirts and reunited with his parents as he was carried from the woods for the 30-mile trip to a Truckee hospital.

The boy, unable to call for help because of his mental handicap, "lapped coke and orange juice up like a puppy," at Tahoe Forest Hospital, authorities said. He was resting comfortably and in good condition today.

He suffered "exposure and dehydration" but was "really in pretty good condition for a little fellow like that," said head nurse Carol Brown.

Dana was found in "head-high" brush, sitting in the shelter of three fallen trees that had formed a sanctuary, said Smith. The area was researched Sunday after a horseback party reported hearing a "sound" in the vicinity Saturday.

The horseback party said they shouted the boy's name and each time they heard what sounded like a faint echo returning from the brush. A ground team found Dana at 1:10 p.m. PDT.

"The parents are very happy, I can tell you that," said Dr. Charles Kellermyer, who examined the boy. Kellermyer said Dana apparently stayed in the same place the entire time he was lost because his feet were not scarred and he had no sunburn.

Dana was on an ecology march last Tuesday near the famed Donner Pass route through the Sierra when he became lost.

Wet Scouts Return To Fuji Camp

ASAGIRI HEIGHTS, Japan (UPI)—The rain-plagued 13th World Boy Scout Jamboree ends Tuesday, when scouts of more than 20,000 nations stage closing ceremonies at their camp site on the slopes of Mt. Fuji.

The farewell ceremony starts at 7 p.m. Japanese time.

The scouts, driven from their camp site 90 miles west of Tokyo by torrential rains Thursday night and Friday, returned Saturday.

Today they were making up for lost time setting up displays in the camp site's "Skill-O-Rama" area. The international musical show is scheduled this evening.

Astronaut Neil Armstrong, who arrived at the camp site Friday, left today for Tokyo. The first man to land on the moon climbed about two-thirds of the way to the top of Mt. Fuji Sunday, then turned back to attend a parade on the Jamboree grounds.

Most of the boys, including the 7,800 member American delegation, are expected to stay on the camp site Tuesday night. The exodus starts Wednesday.

About half the Americans will be returning directly to the United States. The other will tour Japan for a week before returning to America.

Weather has been good since the rains that turned the camp into a quagmire ceased Friday evening.

Petaluman Held In Card Theft

Eddington was arrested last Tuesday, along with Claude Green, 28, of San Francisco, in San Francisco in Connection with an armed robbery in San Rafael July 29.

LONDON (UPI) —British Overseas Airways Corp. (BOAC) denied Sunday a report BOAC is going to offer a $180 round trip fare between London and New York.

Tunney Sees Unemployment, Inflation As Key Problems

By THERON A. NEWELL

Curbing unemployment and inflation are the biggest problems facing the country today, according to Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif.

The senator yesterday addressed approximately 40 persons at a $10-a-ticket cocktail party at the home of Benjamin P. Webb at 445 Woodland Avenue, Kent Woodlands.

He said he favors a draft over a volunteer army; is afraid of the tremendous power of the executive branch of the government and thinks that labor and industry must put voluntary controls on inflation, or they will be forced into it.

Senator Tunney said that President Nixon should call all the leaders of labor and industry into a conference and tell them to halt the rise of costs of both labor and commodities. "He should tell them that if they do not, he will call them back in six months and force such controls on them," said Tunney.

He cited the recent steel agreements saying labor received 10 per cent per year and then the steel industry increased prices 8 per cent. "Half of the cost of steel is in wages or 5 per cent of the 10 per cent given the workers in the cost of steel and the steel company increased prices 8 per cent, giving themselves a nice 3 per cent profit," he said.

Senator Tunney said he was against a volunteer Army because he thought that it would be composed of just the poor. He also expressed concern that a professional army made up solely of volunteers would become a separate power within the nation.

"I believe that the job of defending the country should be spread around among all classes and races," he said. He said he did not believe in student deferments because sons of rich people could get deferred to go to school while poor young men would be drafted.

However, he said that he would vote against draft legislation unless it included the amendment to pull out of Vietnam in nine months.

Tunney, who is on the committee investigating Army surveillance of civilians and government, said, "I am terrified by the increase in the power of the executive branch of the government when generals can defy the orders to appear before a committee such as ours."

The senator said he wants to subpoena the generals to testify before the committee.

He touched briefly on water pollution saying he favored tackling it by whole river systems. He said he sponsored such a bill that got out of subcommittee to full committee. It would require that water quality not interfere with fish, shellfish and bird life.

He said the aerospace industry should be given the job of studying the whole river systems and have them cleaned up by 1980 or in case of economic hardship, by 1985. He estimated it would cost $20 billion to do the job.

Tunney said he voted for the guarantee of a quarter billion dollars in loans to Lockheed mainly because of jobs.

"If Lockheed went under, Douglas would be next and then Boeing, and we would have to nationalize the aerospace industry, he said.

The junior senator said that he was opposed to Vietnam, but our involvement there was now less worrry to him than the buildup of military strength by Russia in Egypt. He said the Soviets have a military base in Egypt in which no Egyptians are allowed. They have about five supersonic jets to every one of Israel, he said.

Gravel To Speak On Secrecy In Government

Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alas., will speak Aug. 17 at the College of Marin on secrecy in the government.

Sen. Gravel will speak at noon at the commonwealth Club in the Colonial Room of the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco before his appearance at the college.

Gravel who called a special meeting June 29 of the Senate subcommittee he chairs to read the "Pentagon Papers" into the record read the documents until his voice gave out. He will address a 4 p.m. registration rally sponsored by the Marin County Young Democrats for Change and the Associated Students.

At 5 p.m. Sen. Gravel will attend a reception co-sponsored by the Marin County Democratic Central Committee, the Democratic State Central Committee and the Young Democrats at the home of June Degnan, Ames Avenue and Shady Lane, Ross. The reception is open to the public and admission is $5.

Personal License Plates Available

A catalog of words and expressions for use on personal license plates is available at the Department of Motor Vehicle office in Corte Madera, the department has announced.

Some 33,000 personal license plates are already being displayed on the cars of California motorists. The vast majority of people selected common first names, last names, nicknames or initials, and relatively few of these remain.

Money paid for the personal license plates goes into a California Environment Protection Fund which has raised about $600,000 since the program began last August.

Nobody Does 'Shrew' Like Our Marinites

Edinburg Scots may be somewhat nonplussed when they see the advertising for one of this year's productions at the Edinburgh Festival of the Arts. A flyer reads like this:

"California's College of Marin Wild West Ltd. presents 'Taming of the Shrew' at the Viewforth Centre.

"SEE Mr. Shakespeare's Verona of the 16th Century transferred to the American frontier of the 1870s! SEE the chilling exploits of Petruchio, the gunslinger and the clever inventions of his Mexican side-kick Grumio! THRILL to the beautiful ladies at Baptista's Saloon! BE AMAZED at the transformation of blue-jeaned, whip-snapping Kate into a mild and gentle lady! HEAR all of Mr. Shakespear's laughable lines! NOT ONE word changed! NOT ONE name altered! NOT ONE scene excised! BOTH ladies and gentlemen will be admitted! . . .

"NOTE: Side arms must be checked at the theatre door."

THE ADVERTISING is quite in character for the westernized "Taming of the Shrew" which has delighted Marin audiences and which a 34-member troupe from our own community college will take to Edinburgh.

It is in keeping with the inventiveness which enabled director James Dunn to transform Shakespeare's familiar comedy into a Wild West burlesque — without, as the advertising notes, altering the lines.

The fact that the College of Marin Players have been invited to take the show to Scotland for the Edinburgh festival is another tribute to Dunn — and to the college players who make up the cast, young people from Lagunitas and Mill Valley, Fairfax and Greenbrae, San Anselmo and Larkspur, Novato and Inverness, Ross, Tiburon, Belvedere, Corte Madera, San Rafael — Marinites all.

No California junior college ever before has been invited to perform at the Edinburgh festival. But it's unlikely that ever before has any California junior college come up with such a well-done and original production.

DUNN AND HIS players will leave Wednesday on a trip financed through contributions, local ticket sales, and a grant from the San Francisco Foundation. They'll tour Stratford-on-Avon, London and York before going to Edinburgh, where they will present "Shrew" 13 times.

We suspect that the old city on the Firth of Forth won't be quite the same for awhile afterward.

Marinites can take pride in College of Marin's drama department, and pleasure in the honor that has been accorded it.

And we suspect that Bill Shakespeare, who was himself an expert hand at adapting old materials, would be quite delighted with what Dunn has done with his stuff — if he were around to see it.

Humidity And Heat

Have you ever noticed that you feel colder when the temperature is 65 or 70 degrees and the air is dry, than at the same temperature with a high humidity? A very damp day recently reminded us of this fact.

The skin gives off moisture which evaporates at a rate governed by the dryness of the air. The drier the air, the more rapid the evaporation. All evaporation requires heat and, in this case, it must come from the skin. Hence, it is easy to understand that one will feel colder in dry air where evaporation is rapid, than in air with a high humidity.

And this is why we suffer on hot humid days.

Smogless Car In Marin, But Not In Sacramento

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Remember the publicity when Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, converted his private car to operate on liquid propane gas?

That was in March of 1970, when Behr was scrambling hard for the nomination that got him to Sacramento.

But now that he is in office, we discovered, he has abandoned his personal campaign to clean up California's air. We would have thought that the air around the capitol was in special need of cleansing.

AT THE TIME of his campaign, Behr modestly acknowledged that "one pollutantless car on the highways may not be significant, but it is a needed beginning, especially when 75 per cent of our smog is produced by the automobile."

He even displayed his 1967 car in a press conference. The conversion cost $200 to $300, he said, a modest investment given the favorable publicity it harvested.

He urged government leaders to convert their own cars to "prove they are serious about the growing air pollution problem." He praised the fuel as "a proven system."

Behr explained to us that he has a new car now, an imported model "used just around Sacramento." He added it has a small engine, thus probably emits few pollutants.

His other car was an American monster leased at state cost, but he volunteered that it had not been converted "because Hertz won't allow it as an extra." The senator conceded he had not inquired about converting it, however.

But he said that his legislative program in the 1972 session will concentrate on air pollution.

ASSEMBLYMAN Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, has objected to our suggestion last week that he was high-handed in his disposal of Behr's bill to authorize a statewide network of bicycle paths. He claimed that a vote was taken, and Behr did not have enough votes for his bill to clear Brown's ways and means committee.

Our sources, however, do not agree with Brown's version. No record vote was taken by the committee.

INDIGNANT CRIES have come over the construction ban imposed on Richardson Bay Sanitary District and Mill Valley by the Regional Water Quality Control Board.

These plaints apparently come from people who have not smelled Richardson Bay in the area of the two treatment plants, who have not tried to peer through even the shallowest areas of the murky water, or who have not seen the blooms of algae — a sure sign of a body of water in trouble.

One Mill Valley city councilman conceded to us that the ban was the inevitable price of procrastination. Engineers warned annually that something must be done to control pollution, but councilmen always gave a low priority to the needed and expensive corrections. The rationale always was the taxpayers wouldn't stand for the property taxes it would take to do the job.

It turned out to be rather short sighted.

TODAY'S WORLD

"I saw Ralph Nader snooping around the neighborhood."

Once again it's "Up! Up and Away!" for the man of steel and his faithful side-kick.

Moon Excursions Not Necessary For Jobs

In answer to Mr. Tom Lyons' letter ("Readers Say," July 30):

You are wrong. I would not wilfully put anyone out of a job. But I don't like my tax dollar spent foolishly; one moon rock is like all the rest. This new trip to the moon cost 445 millions of dollars.

I agree, 12.3 billion dollars a year for alcoholic beverages is outrageous — but it's not my tax dollar.

I want all our backyards cleaned up and sending men to the moon won't get it done. I say put those hundred thousand plus technical brains to work constructing a better place for all of us to live — not figuring out new ways to pollute the moon.

Things Made Tough For The Pedestrian

Ecology is one of the most discussed topics of today and especially the effect on the public of the motor car. But so far as I know, very little if anything has been done for the pedestrian. I am 83 years of age and consider my good health is largely due to the fact that I usually walk from two to four miles each day, in any direction, up hill, down, or on the flat. To show some of the difficulties in walking, I am reciting some of them which occurred on July 30.

Since the water company office was moved to Corte Madera several years ago to about two miles from my house, I have been walking there every two months to pay my water bill. The shortest distance for walking is over a small hill to a path along a drainage ditch through which the tides flow. This path is roughly a quarter-mile long with fence and gate at each end, with a sign stating that the path will be closed from dusk to 8 a.m. As I arrived at the intersection of Birch and Lakeside avenues just across the street from the south gate to the path, a large dog sprang at me into the roadway, and I was saved only by a rope leash which stopped the dog short of the sidewalk. I wasn't so lucky a few months before when the leash was longer and the dog grabbed my arm. A sweater and rain coat saved the arm. I then went across the street and through the gate, as it was nearly two hours past the opening time of 8 o'clock. When I arrived at the north gate, I found it padlocked. What should I do; climb the six-foot gate, or go home? The water office was in sight across empty fields less than a half mile away. To walk there without climbing meant going south around the lagoon and back north again, nearly two miles. I managed to climb to the top of the fence and drop on the other side. When I had paid my water bill, I walked south on Madera Boulevard past the shopping center, to Tamalpais Drive. There I turned west to walk nearly a mile to the City Hall. It was rough going, as the walks on both sides of the street have practically all been torn up during the $150,000 change. . .

In walking along sidewalks, one occasionally has to step off the walks to get by over-hanging tree branches or outcropping bushes. In addition, one is sometimes startled by a fast and silent bicycle brushing past from the rear.

E. M. HALL

Curb On Salaries Of Officials Needed

Big business knows that in order to make an organization successful there has to be a check on all phases of the business, i.e. expenses, profit and especially wages. The workers have set wages, as do many of the supervisors, until it gets to the president. Even he has the board of directors to ratify his increase in salary.

Our government is big business, city, county, state and federal. Yet there is no check on salary increases of elected officials. They can vote their own salary increases, which is like the rabbit carrying lettuce. This is why I appeal to voters to get behind the initiative petition that will ask voters in the state to decide whether or not salary increases of elected officials should or should not be approved by the voters. Interested persons can write Initiative Petition Group, P. O. Box 295, Penryn, Calif. 95663.

Doors Of Job Market Closed Against Veterans Of Vietnam

(Reprinted from Oakland Tribune)

The plight of the Vietnam veteran seeking a job, if not a national disgrace, is at least nothing for any of us to be proud of.

Of the 75,000 veterans now being discharged each month, it is estimated that 10,000 are unable to find work. Sec. of Labor James D. Hodgson says there are now some 350,000 unemployed Vietnam vets.

Granted the job situation is tight for everyone. But there is still no excuse for the fact that the unemployment rate for Vietnam veterans is running 2 per cent higher than for non-veterans in the same age group.

SOME ANALYSTS attribute the disparity to nothing more than the fact that in giving up two or three years of his life for his country the Vietnam veteran has simply fallen that far behind his civilian counterpart in job preparation.

Others ascribe the Vietnam veteran's plight to a far more serious situation, the possibility that some employers are reluctant to hire him because of such factors as the unpopularity of the Asian conflict, reports of drug misuse by U.S. troops and atrocity charges.

The experience of many employers, to the contrary, has been that the Vietnam veteran is generally a more mature man than the non-veteran and, because of his exposure to military discipline, is more adaptable. Similarly, colleges report that returning veterans generally are better students.

Nonetheless, it remains clear that the Vietnam vet is finding it much harder to get a job and thus complete the transition to civilian life than did returning veterans from World War II and the Korean War.

FACED WITH this uncomfortable truth, President Nixon has ordered the Labor Department to launch an intensive effort to find jobs or provide training for Vietnam veterans.

Greater cooperation from the business community will be sought; servicemen will be given expanded job training and counseling prior to discharge; job training and placement services by federal agencies will be accelerated; and special attention will be devoted to veterans unemployed three months or longer.

This new, intensified federal effort is long overdue. It should receive priority attention — both on the part of governmental agencies involved and those in the business world in a position to give the job-seeking Vietnam veteran the preferential treatment he deserves.

Admission of Red China Means Expulsion Of Taiwan

WASHINGTON — Two events will almost certainly flow from the announcement of Secretary of State Rogers that the United States will vote for admitting Red China to the United Nations and against expelling Taiwan:

Red China will be voted in.

Taiwan will be voted out.

When the United Nations meets next month virtually all opposition to making the People's Republic of China a member of the General Assembly and of the Security Council will have been erased.

Support for this has been growing every year and only the influence of the United States to require a two-thirds vote kept Red China out last fall. The 1970 vote on the Albanian resolution, to admit Red China and remove Taiwan, was 51 for, 49 against and 25 abstentions. Next month the vote will be decisively "yes" and, with all the big powers on the same side, there will be few abstentions.

WHY, THEN, IS IT likely that Taiwan will be expelled? The reason is that year after year there has developed a momentum of votes in the United Nations for Peking and against Taipei and there is no evidence that the United States can continue to keep an armlock on enough votes to keep Taiwan in the General Assembly. It is not even going to try, in part because it has no chance of succeeding.

There is also the fact that many countries look upon this issue as an issue of credentials; that is, whether Taipei of Peking should represent the China named in the U.N. charter. The dominant view today is that Peking is that government.

IN LOGIC and justice, the people of Taiwan deserve to be represented in the United Nations. There is no good reason why Taiwan shouldn't be a member. Some would argue that Chiang's government is not representative of the Taiwanese people, but a nation's membership in the United Nations is not based on how its government came to power.

If representative government were the test of U.N. membership, the General Assembly would shrink to about one-half its size.

Ideally, the United States would like to see both Peking and Taipei in the United Nations. The outlook is not encouraging, but in any event the American defense commitment to Taiwan will be continued.

This will secure Taiwan from any attack from Red China. The effect of this is to induce each side to settle future relationships by peaceful means.

ALTHOUGH THE Soviet Union has continued to vote in favor of the Albanian resolution — to admit Red China and expel Taiwan — in recent years it has not viewed with any relish the prospect of having Peking in the United Nations.

Arthur Goldberg, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, recalls that when he and the Russian ambassador were about to cancel out each other's vote on the China issue, this exchange took place between them:

The Russian ambassador: "What's going to happen to your friend (Communist China) today?"

Ambassador Goldberg: "I thought he was your friend."

The Russian ambassador: "Save us from our friends!"

THERE IS NO DOUBT that the Russians are more than ever worried about their relations with China and are deeply concerned about the forthcoming Nixon-Chou En-Lai summit. They are understandably suspicious that the United States may play both ends against the middle by using detente with China to Moscow's disadvantage.

President Nixon has absolutely no intention of doing this and has said so explicitly. But it would be well if he could meet with the Russians in person to quiet these suspicions before going to Peking. Nixon would need a valid reason for a Soviet meeting — possibly at Helsinki or Vienna. The best possible reason would be a Soviet-U.S. nuclear arms agreement. If the Russians want to see Nixon soon, speeding an agreement at the SALT talks would be a good way to do it.

Hoover Museum Displays Contain Political Lesson

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WEST BRANCH Iowa — "Steel Layoffs Spread . . . Consumer Debts Rise . . . Crime Rate Jitters Blamed . . . Wage Price Board Pushed . . . Securities Firms' Income Eroded . . . Executive Job Pension Grows . . ."

Those are snatches of headlines from one day's Wall Street Journal in August, 1971, but they are enough like the ones in that autumn of 42 years ago to bring the word "depression" occasionally back into conversation, rather than the milder "recession." And that, inevitably, brings Herbert Hoover back to mind.

He was born in a board-and-batten cottage here in corn country, of poor Quaker parents in 1874 — when the great post-Civil War depression had just petered out. He died in the Waldorf Towers, long since a multimillionaire, in the prosperous year of 1964. He made that trip, economically and geographically, by clinging to the lessons of hard work and independence he learned as a child. But a lot of his contemporaries, people whose well-being depended heavily on what he did, failed to make the trip with him, and they despised him for it.

HERE AT WEST BRANCH, the National Parks Service has done a skillful job of preserving and recreating the surroundings among which Hoover spent his first 10 years, before he was orphaned and went west. Austere and functional, they recall the effectiveness of individual effort applied through hand tools and direct procedures — the way things used to work.

In his father's blacksmith and carpenter shop, the implements of the late 1800s hang with the beauty of simplicity. Planes and scythes, hammers, tongs and the great hand-operated bellows; a collection of corn shuckers much alike to the eastern tourist but with esoteric details differentiating them, so that one midwesterner of about 70 examines them all carefully before telling his daughter, "That's the kind I used to use right there."

The library-museum lies across from the old Quaker meeting house, down a gentle slope from the knob where the former president and his wife lie in graves within a semicircle of young pines. Busloads of tourists turn off Interstate 80, just two blocks south, to follow Hoover's career through the displays inside.

THE EXHIBITS cover his adventurous days abroad as a mining engineer, when he made his fortune in the most classic capitalist style. They celebrate at length his brilliant and sacrificial years as the "great humanitarian" who saw to it that millions in post-World War I Europe did not starve. They detail the praise he won in later life as elder statesman and efficiency expert studying reorganization of the executive branch of the federal government.

And in one four-and-a-half foot panel of wall display among all those souvenirs, mementos of appreciation, embroidered flour sacks from Belgian housewives, photographs and newspaper clippings, they acknowledge that there was such a thing as a depression, and that he was somehow connected with it.

The few exhibits in that panel manage to be positive. They emphasize a momentary upturn in the economy after the crash, an early move against further panic, creation of a federal agency to make loans to encourage business expansion, and in their turn they remind the visitors this August of what is in today's papers.

HOOVER'S SECRETARY of the treasury was Andrew Mellon, who was unbelievably rich in oil, steel, construction and banking, and in economics believed in the survival of the fittest. Mr. Nixon's secretary of the treasury is John Connally, who became well off through his own oil connections, and whose economic beliefs are less clear than his considerable expertise. Hoover listened to Mellon, and gradually did less instead of more about the depression. Mr. Nixon listens to Connally, and his eventual moves are still unclear.

Economics has changed vastly in 42 years.

But perhaps this president, another Quaker from an austere and hardworking background, would have done us all a service if he had scheduled a quick stop at West Branch when he visited Iowa last week. For if he had, he could not have helped being reminded that political disaster can follow from unwillingness to take risks, as well.

In Smithneck, Sierra County, They Take Vandalism Seriously

Vandalism has been rife in Novato's Pioneer Memorial Cemetery for years and years. Ghoulish individuals have delighted in the destruction of the gravestones.

Church groups, citizen committees and the city government have all tried to rectify the damage and prevent further vandalism. Now the city is going to spend some $13,000 (or $26,000 if it gets matching funds) to attempt to set the tombstones so that vandals cannot wreck them.

IT SEEMS THAT vandalism is not confined to Novato. In the remote Sierras, vandals have been wrecking the picnic tables at the Rotary picnic grounds at Smithneck, Sierra County.

However, these rugged mountaineers take a different attitude toward the vandals. The Sierra Booster, a newspaper published every two weeks there, reports a different course of action.

According to the Sierra Booster, a group is being organized whose members will guard the picnic grounds. There are several vantage points around the barbecue pits and tables "from which a vandal could be picked off neatly by a hidden marksman with a 30-30," comments the newspaper.

"Disposition of the body could be troublesome, but there are a number of old mine shafts in Sierra County that could hide a human carcass for a long time. If a dead vandal had family or friends, they would simply think he had moved away and forgotten to say goodbye."

We are not advocating such action for Novato, but find ourselves in a similar position to the rooster who suddenly came upon an ostrich egg. He called all the hens around him.

"I'm not casting any reflections on your work, but I just want to show you what is being done elsewhere," the rooster told the hens.

IN THE SAME budget with the $13,000 for the cemetery, Novato City Council allocated the $24,000 for tennis courts and $45,000 to construct three circular wooden stockades to hold children's play equipment.

The tennis group was quite vociferous at the council meeting, telling the councilmen that tennis players were alive and needed the tennis courts, while those in the cemetery were dead.

The council allocated the money, but made no provision to charge for use of the courts. The city collects money from children and adults alike to pay for the city swimming pool.

Why shouldn't it charge adults and young adults to use the tennis courts? Other recreation programs pay their own way.

It would not require hiring another park employee to collect the fees, but could be done with some type of meter that gives the player the use of the court for some amount, such as 50 cents. An hourly check of the tennis courts would readily show whether the occupants had paid their fee.

This would help pay the cost of the tennis courts.

Oil Spill Cleanup Method Outgrowing 'Straw Age'

By MICHAEL WIDMER

HINGHAM, Mass. (UPI)— When you fly across the Atlantic 44 times in one year it can mean a lot of things. For Russell S. Delano, it is explained by the fact he is an expert on cleaning up oil spills at sea.

Delano, founder and president of Coastal Services, the largest and most experienced firm in the country dealing in oil spills, has acted as a consultant at many of the worst spills around the globe for the past 15 years.

"My company has handled more than 5,000 spills since 1955 and I've been a consultant at hundreds more, and I've yet to see two that were alike," Delano said in an interview. "The natural conditions —tides, water temperature, winds — make every spill different.

"The key is to respond immediately and to contain the oil before it spreads and does too much damage," he said, "but equipment problems and bureaucratic conflicts often make that difficult.

"The technology of cleaning up oil spills is just coming out of the straw age. Straw used to be the primary means of coping with spills but it was expensive and messy."

Chemicals were also used but now they have been banned in most places, he said. "Mechanical means are the best — absorbent skimmers or bags for lighter oils and vacuum equipment for heavier oils.

"I've seen more technological advances in the field in the past 18 months than the previous 15 years but we're still not capable of handling major disasters like the Torrey Canyon spill," Delano said. "There is no equipment that can contain spills at high seas because of the waves and wind. The booms are not powerful enough.

"To make matters more difficult, what equipment there is, is often thousands of miles from the scene of the spill. Then when you get it there after much difficulty, you often find tremendous confusion over who is in charge of cleaning up the oil.

"Sometimes the Coast Guard gets into the act." Other times local fire officials have the final say. Local laws often leave the question of authority unclear and the federal government is not doing much to improve the situation through better coordination."

Some states, like Massachusetts, have enacted legislation guaranteeing that companies will be paid for cleaning up spills.

Delano feels because of stronger penalties and wider publicity, "most American oil companies have accepted responsibility for cleaning up oil spills. There was a time when they wouldn't bother to do it, but no more."

But the number of spills continues to rise because of increasing traffic, Delano said. His company alone works on a half dozen spills on any given day.

"There are no signs that the number of spills will decline," Delano said, "so the only thing that can be done is to ensure that the means for cleaning up the oil is made easier and quicker. That's happening, but slowly."

Drive Begun For Ballot Measure Aimed At Taxes

A drive has been opened for Marin County signatures to place on the statewide ballot a measure sharply curbing property taxes and assessments.

John H. Winters of Larkspur is chairman of the county drive. He said the statewide campaign seeks a total of 800,000 signatures to insure a public vote on the so-called Jarvis Amendment to the state Constitution.

Winters said the proposal would limit any owner's annual property taxes to 1 per cent of the property's market value, curb assessment increases and remove tax exemptions for nearly all nonprofit organizations.

If approved by the voters, the amendment would force the Legislature to turn to other sources of revenue for state operation and support of local government agencies, Winters explained. He said the initiative measure cannot outline alternate financing because state law limits any ballot proposition to only one subject.

However, sales tax, income tax, severance taxes on natural resources, levies on horse racing and tobacco sales, and many other sources could offset the property tax, Winters said. He argued that these would be more equitable.

Arraignment On Inverness Arson

Chris Shoemaker of Inverness has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a felony charge of arson.

He is to plead to the charge Aug. 20.

Shoemaker surrendered himself in court Friday on a warrant accusing him and a man identified as Preston Reid of starting a minor fire June 25 at the Inverness Coffee House.

A warrant also is out for Reid.

Youth Charged In Driving Case

Only a misdemeanor charge of drunken driving has been filed in Marin Municipal Court against Patrick James Cuffe, 18, of Kentfield.

Cuffe was arrested Thursday on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs, as well as the driving charge, but the district attorney's office said two tablets found in his possession turned out to be a nonrestricted drug.

He was arrested by Larkspur police who said he ran through a stop sign at Magnolia and Woodland avenues and almost hit a police car.

Cuffe is to plead to the drunken driving charge Sept. 3.

Hearings Set On Park Service Bid For Yosemite 'Wilderness'

I-J Special Report

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK — Hearings will be held next month in Yosemite Valley and at Mammoth Lakes on a proposal to turn 624,000-acres of the park into designated wilderness area.

According to draft statements released by the U. S. National Park Service, the environmental impact has, as its purpose "to conserve the scenery and the natural and historic objects and the wildlife therein and to provide for the enjoyment of the same in such manner and by such means as will leave them unimpaired for the enjoyment of future generations."

National Park officials state that a wilderness designation by Congress will "constitute a commitment of resources in this same direction that will be irreversible and irretrievable" except by another act of Congress.

Yosemite was established as a National Park in 1890 and today accommodates 2,250,000 visitors annually. For the most part these tourists visit Yosemite Valley, Tuolume Meadows, Glacier Point, Wawona and the Big Trees areas.

Park service officials have selected five different units within Yosemite for designation as wilderness. They iknclude most of the Tuolumne River drainage north of the Tioga Pass Road and the Merced River drainage to the south. In all, 81 per cent of the park would have restricted access due to the change.

Development of wilderness areas is in sharp contrast to the National Park Service's handling of visitors on the valley floor.

Traffic has become so heavy in summer months that parts of the valley floor are restricted to prohibit use of automobiles. Thousands of daily visitors are denied entrance to the park because there are no hotel rooms or campsites available.

In addition to natural wonders like El Capitan, Yosemite Falls, Half Dome, Nevada, Vernal and Bridalveil Falls, the park features 750 miles of hiking trails, and there are more than 200 lakes and 550 miles of streams.

Park officials hope to encourage back packing in the wilderness area which they say is "ideally suited for hiking, primitive camping, mountaineering and cross-country skiing."

Biggest fear of those opposed to the park's wilderness concept is the reduction of recreation areas for California's increasing population.

Nixon Backing Bill To Curb Election Costs

By EUGENE V. RISHER

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The cost of running for high public office has been somewhat of a national disgrace, helping to keep political power in the hands of the rich and privileged.

Despite attempts to require all candidates for federal office to disclose their campaign spending, there is no accurate way of determining how much money is spent on behalf of a political candidate or where it comes from.

Prompted, probably by the financial straits they find themselves in, the Democrats have taken the lead in pushing for legislation to correct this situation. They charged that Republican fat cats were not interested in reform and made some political hay last year when President Nixon vetoed a bill to limit campaign spending for radio and television time.

The President said the measure would have discriminated against the broadcast media.

NOW NIXON HAS come out in favor of a plan that would limit spending for the 1972 campaign to about $14 million per party.

According to White House officials, the President is supporting a measure that would limit campaign spending to 10 cents for each potential voter. A potential voter is considered to be anybody over age 18, registered or not.

The plan also would prohibit extension of unsecured credit to any political candidate by such corporations as airlines, telephone companies and printers which have yet to collect several million dollars they extended on credit for services in previous campaigns.

In Nixon's view, administration officials said, this amounts to thinly disguised illegal contributions.

THERE STILL would be gaping holes in the procedure which doubtless would be exploited by both sides in next year's campaigns.

The limitation would be specifically for spending on radio, television, newspaper, magazine and billboard advertising. It would not, for instance, cover such things as direct telephone and mail solicitations, nor would it include the cost of primary campaigns.

The measure would empower the President to appoint, subject to Senate approval, a bipartisan federal elections commission to serve as a watchdog. The commission would be the repository for all financial reports and have responsibility for making them public.

The measure also would lift the current requirement that broadcasters give equal time to all political candidates.

The President's view, the official said, is that such requirements discourage radio and television coverage of political campaigns by forcing broadcasters to give the same time to fringe candidates that they do to major candidates.

Apartment Parking Hearing Set In Larkspur

The Larkspur Planning Commission tonight will hold a public hearing on parking requirements for 22 apartments proposed at 220-240 Lower Via Casitas.

The commission will meet at 7:30 o'clock at city hall.

The commission will interview two applicants for planning consultant during the first part of the meeting.

The public hearing for parking requirements of the 22 apartments proposed by Holon Company will follow the interviews.

Other items on the agenda include eight apartments proposed by Foster-Simon Co. at 30 Corte Real, a portion of an industrial building at 44 Industrial Way and a revision of parking regulations.

Property On Fairfax Agenda

The Fairfax City Council will hear a report from Mayor Cornelis Van Vliet on the Marin Town and Country Club property, at its regular meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Fairfax Women's Clubhouse.

A group calling itself Preserve Land and Nature Committee (PLAN) is circulating petitions urging that the property remain undeveloped. The land, however, bought by Kaiser-Aetna Corporation of Oakland which is interested in building between 350 and 450 apartments on the property.

The council will also appoint a new member to the Parks and Recreation Commission and consider a final subdivision map of Village West, a townhouse development along Fairfax Creek.

Novato Art Display

Paintings by Mae Wygant of Novato will be on display throughout this month at the Novato branch of the Marin County Library.

Pepperland On Planners Slate Again

The long-controversial Pepperland concert hall will be back on the San Rafael Planning Commission agenda tomorrow night.

The commission will meet at 7:30 p.m. in city hall.

Pepperland owner Irving Litchfield will present plans to remove the roof sign from the building, plant trees and restore the glass blocks on the wall fronting on Francisco Boulevard.

The commission on July 27 gave Litchfield permission to open retail shops in smaller rooms off the main hall, which formerly was a rock palace.

Previously continued hearings also are scheduled on plans for 264 townhouses and 84 quadruplex buildings near Kerner and Bellam boulevards in East San Rafael. Applicants Kerner-Bellam Realty Co. seek approval of a master plan with recreational facilities in three areas of the project, a variance to permit 15-foot setbacks for 30 of the buildings instead of the 20 normally required and a use permit.

The commissioners also will discuss sign standards for the Montecito Shopping Center and policy guidelines for general application of the recently enacted city sign ordinance.

Stradivarius Violin Found In House

BELLEY, France (UPI)— Frantz Baetz and his brother Emile were cleaning out their alpine summer home over the weekend and discovered a 225-year-old Stradivarius violin.

Frantz said the rare instrument probably belonged to his granfather, a student of the French 19th century composer Camille Saint-Saens.

Real Shoot-Out At Wild West Weekend

DALHART, Tex. (UPI)—All the people of Dalhart had in mind was a little weekend Wild West celebration—horses, boots and spurs, a few six-shooters loaded with blanks, that kind of thing.

In the middle of it all, though, a pair of Illinois jailbreakers drove through town exchanging genuine gunfire with pursuing Highway Patrolmen and a Dallam County deputy sheriff.

Deputy E. F. (Red) Byrd stopped the suspects' car outside of town. But they pulled guns and disarmed Byrd and also Highway Patrolman Carl Scofield, who drove up about the same time.

"The guys got in their car and started on down the street into town," said Sheriff R. C. Johnson. "They shot at two Highway Patrolmen, who returned the fire."

In town the annual XIT Ranch reunion was under way, a Saturday afternoon gathering of 6,000 persons including cowboys and old settlers reliving life on the XIT—one of the nation's largest ranches.

The celebrants had just staged a downtown parade and a phony holdup.

"There were plenty of people still on the street and others in a park alongside the chase route," Johnson said.

The chase reached the center of town and turned down Main Street. State policemen's fire wounded one of the suspects, but they kept returning the officers' fire until finally their car crashed into a tree.

One of the suspects, Wayne Forrest of Ellsinore, Mo., died of a wound in the head. The other, Daniel Lewis of Lewisville, Ill., was only bruised in the wreck.

Both were identified as escapees from the McCleansboro, Ill., jail, where they were being held on armed robbery charges.

The incident began earlier in the day when two men robbed the William Robbins family of Seal Beach, Calif., at a roadside park 20 miles west of Dalhart. Robbins notified Dalhart officers.

Byrd spotted the suspects driving toward Dalhart on U.S. 54 and stopped them for questioning. After the suspects got the drop on Byrd, they roared into town to join the Wild West celebration.

"But the people soon knew the difference when real bullets started flying," Sheriff Johnson said.

Lawmakers Scatter Around The Globe As Congress Recesses

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate had not even rung its final bell last Friday when an Air Force plane loaded with House members and their wives, headed by Speaker Carl Albert, took off on a tour of Korea, Taiwan, Hong Kong and Manila —and such popular waypoints as Honolulu, going and coming.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., had his bags packed for a visit to India and Pakistan. Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., had tickets for Hong Kong, Japan, Thailand, Vietnam and Russia.

They and other lawmakers today were scattered around the globe, and back across their home districts, in a congressional recess that will last until Sept. 8. They left behind key legislation in various states of incompletion with little prospect for any quick action when they come back.

It appeared that various anti-war debates would keep Congress working until Christmas, even though the official schedule is geared for a late fall adjournment.

The month-long vacation — for practical purposes stretched to five weeks since the first post-recess week in the House and Senate faced heavy absenteeism —was the first of its kind decreed under a reform law Congress passed.

Leaders split along party lines as to how much had been done since the 92nd Congress convened on Jan. 20. They all agreed that plenty had not, and that some of the stickest problems remained to be solved.

Among them was a two-year draft extension including an amendment expressing Congress' desire to negotiate peace in Indochina and bring home the troops in return for an exchange of war prisoners.

This watered-down end-the-war language has cleared the House but faces a promised dove filibuster that is set to start in the Senate on Monday, Sept. 13. That will almost surely last a couple of weeks — delaying any resumption of the draft until October at the earliest —and even then the real fight will still be ahead.

That will come on two other key pieces of military legislation —a $20 billion defense procurement authorization and the annual defense money bill of some $70 billion, the first of which has passed the House unamended and awaits Senate action and the second of which has not yet cleared its first hurdle, the House Appropriations Committee.

Senate doves will use both bills as vehicles for attempted amendments to order an end to the war or to bar spending in Indochina by a specified date.

All such efforts have failed in the past but only after weeks of debate.

Thus the stage is set for endless Senate talkfests — especially since uncounted Senate Democrats (and even a House member or two) are admitted, unavowed, or at least hopeful prospect for President in 1972.

That spells trouble in turn for the array of legislative must bills not related to war — welfare reform (passed by the House but just beginning to move in the Senate); campaign spending (on which the Senate has acted and the House is split all over the lot); equal rights for women (approved by the House Judiciary Committee in a form that seems likely to infuriate the most interested women); and legislation to deal with strikes in national emergencies (on which the House Commerce Committee has just started hearings).

As for other key items, including revenue sharing, health care, consumer protection, and government reorganization — all high on President Nixon's priority list —there is always next year.

Innocent Plea To Assault Charge

John Lee Bailey, 35, of Marin City, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a felony charge of assault with a deadly weapon and two counts of possession of a firearm by a convicted felon.

Preliminary hearing was set for Sept. 2.

Bailey, who is also known as John Lee Baly, was arrested July 29 in connection with the shooting of Ricky Johnson, 19, of Marin City, at a Marin City pool hall on July 28.

Johnson was shot in the right leg following an argument, sheriff's deputies said.

An Ear For Storytelling

By PAT BALMES

"The expression in the human voice will help small children understand meanings of words," says Mae J. Durham, University of California lecturer in librarianship who calls herself simply a storyteller. Parents, older children, teachers and librarians should tell stories and read aloud to little children.

The petite Mill Valley woman teaches library services for children and young adults, children's literature, school library administration and story telling to student librarians in Berkeley.

Her annual summer program at University of California has gained national recognition during the past nine years. Three hundred librarians, editors, writers, teachers, school administrators and parents from all over the United States have come to hear her guest speakers "who can realistically look at the world today and interpret the contemporary scene's effect on children." Beginning today, and continuing through Friday, Professor Durham will moderate her program, "The World Today Seen Through Books for Children and Young Adults."

MRS. DURHAM has been a committee member for American Library Association to make annual Newberry and Caldecott awards for the most distinguished children's books of 1968, 1969 and 1970 and "a few times before that." She was national president of Children's Services Division of American Library Association for 1968-69.

"I WANT the very best writing for children," says Mae. "I used to say, 'Get children reading no matter what!' But I don't say that any more. There are 30,000 books for children in print today. The number a child can read before he's 12 is not very many. Librarians must try to guide children to the right book for the right child at the right time.

"With a librarian children feel they are on neutral ground; they can say anything they want and it's not going to go any further. They need us as librarians, not as substitute parents," says Professor Durham.

She advises students to attract a child to a book by selecting a strong plot and good character development. In her classroom she tests students by asking them to describe a character — "not what he did, but what he was like."

MAE GOES all over the country to speak. One of her themes is three identifications a child wants to make: understanding his own history, knowing other children like himself and discovering the universal human spirit in strangers.

She mentioned black and Spanish children who in the past have been deprived of pride in their history because they did not know it.

"It is just as important for white children to know about black history as for blacks," she says, adding that there is a need for more books on these backgrounds.

The need to know children like him or herself will send a child home from the library with a book about a happy school situation or about a problem like his own.

He will discover the "universality of his human spirit" in books about human frustrations, hopes, loves and hates which permeate every child regardless of background, says Mae Durham.

In the 19th Century, at the start of the appearance of children's books, most important books came from England. Now books aren't necessarily better but "certainly are more courageous," Mae says, "dealing honestly with subjects not previously allowed because of puritanical thinking."

Today parents are scared. Affluent parents want to buy culture for children, she says, joking about a mythical "I-can-read-before-you-can-read" book. Reading is really a habit copied from parents, she says. Television is not a deterrent in learning to read.

"WHO CAN say what children can understand? They can grow up with a great book like 'Moby Dick,' coming back to it over and over during their lifetime."

As a New York City public library children's librarian, Mae had a regular story hour which included Harlem children. She almost refused to tell stories to Puerto Rican children when she learned they could not yet speak or understand English.

"I went ahead anyway because they were attentive. Afterwards I asked a shy little girl if she understood. She said, 'No. But the words, they sounded good,'" says Mae.

The language's rhythm is important to little children. In "Tit for Tat," Mae retells Latvian folk tales, told her by a Latvian former student. Because she kept the Latvian flavor, it was assumed that she was a native when the book was reviewed in a Latvian newspaper.

MRS. DURHAM moved to Marin 18 years ago and was library consultant for Marin County schools. She worked on the Head Start program throughout Northern California. She taught children's literature at San Francisco State College and was librarian at Frederic Burk Demonstration School there, working with all types of children including deaf, blind and mentally retarded.

She asked a deaf boy if he understood every word.

"If the word is very important, the writer will use it over and over and then I'll understand it," he answered.

During that time she was visiting professor at University of California and she went on its faculty full time in 1959.

Mae lives in a house in the woods in Mill Valley with a view of "that beautiful mountain." She enjoys the theater, concerts and her yard, where she feeds raccoons, deer and birds. She spends a day each week at home writing for library periodicals "because my campus office is too busy."

She is a graduate of Russell Sage College in Troy, N.Y. Her librarianship graduate degree is from University of the State of New York and she also did graduate work at Columbia University. Then she added sociology studies at New School for Social Research in New York City, studying under war refugee professors from Europe.

"I am concerned about teachers and other people who work with children who never get beyond that level. I resent anyone who doesn't spread out into art, literature, history and music," Mae says.

HER AIM is to train effective young librarians "who will do the best job they can helping the public establish for themselves high standards.

"My thrill has been the reaction of children to whom I introduced a good book."

UNIVERSITY OF California lecturer on children's librarianship, Mae Durham of Mill Valley is moderator there this week of a special national program for 300 persons on "the contemporary scene as seen in books for children and young adults." At her Mill Valley home she selects poems which children like from among Theodore Roethke's poetry.

Hike Into Wilderness Successful

By MOLLY MARIN

Mrs. Eugene De Brecht of Novato and Mrs. Jean Bean of Corte Madera have returned from a nine-day pack trip to the Minaret Wilderness area. They began their trip at Devil's Post Pile with four other women from Oregon and hiked into Lake Ediza in the Mount Ritter and Mount Banner area. They carried all of their food and equipment. One of the Oregon women became affected by the altitude and had to be let down on ropes, Mrs. De Brecht said, but that was the only mishap on the trip.

Earlier this summer, the De Brechts had planned a trip out of Fallen Leaf, but Dr. De Brecht was unable to join their daughter, Kathy and Mrs. De Brecht, who made the five-day pack trip alone.

Kathy, a medical student at the University of Utah in Salt Lake City, is an extern at Idaho State Hospital in Blackfoot, Idaho, and Dr. and Mrs. De Brecht flew her to Blackfoot by private plane.

MR. AND MRS. Joseph R. Fernandez of San Rafael were surprised at a champagne dinner Saturday at the Tiburon home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hobbs that turned out to be a party celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary. Some 40 guests attended.

Giving the party with the Hobbses were the Fernandezs' daughters, Janet Fernandez of San Jose and Joyce Fernandez of San Rafael.

The couple had thought the dinner was a bon voyage party, for they will be leaving in the near future for Spain with Joyce, who will attend the University of Madrid.

The Fernandezes were married on Aug. 12, 1946, in San Francisco.

ON A SOUTH American trip this summer Joan Kingery of San Rafael has been visiting friends who are serving with the U.S. foreign Service in Quito, Ecuador, and Lima, Peru. During her six weeks travels she has made short trips to the high mountain and lake country around Quito and plans to visit Machu Picchu, the ruins of the ancient Inca citadel in the Andes and other parts of Peru. Friends are staying in her San Rafael home until she returns Aug. 21.

BEL MARIN Keys Yacht Club is planning a weekend cruise to Tiburon on Aug. 21 and 22. The club's power boat fleet is planning the cruise to the Corinthian Yacht Club.

A COCKTAIL party was given by Miss Lois Prentice at her home in Sausalito Saturday, as a benefit for the T. K. Miller Children's Center in Napa.

SWEDEN, Norway, Denmark and Finland were the countries which Mr. and Mrs. Fred F. Enemark of San Rafael toured for three weeks as members of the Commonwealth Club's travel group. In each country, the 45 travelers met with the United States Ambassador who briefed them on the highlights of the Scandinavian country to which he had been assigned. Mrs. Enemark found the three-day boat trip through the fjords of Norway en route to Oslo fascinating, but noted that Copenhagen, with the Tivoli Gardens, Hamlet's Castle, and the nearby "Danish Riviera" were her personal favorites. The Enemarks returned Monday night, flying the polar route.

The Air Force has a regulation requiring women officers, whether married or not, to leave the service if they become pregnant.

The Air Force planned to fly Lt. Gutierrez, 27, and her infant daughter born July 3 from Wiesbaden for proceedings today. But the U.S. district Court granted an injunction Friday and it was upheld by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

HELEN HELP US!

Gals Bored With Woman Talk Should Shift To Better Topics

DEAR HELEN:

After suffering through another party where the men gathered in one room and the women in another, to discuss fascinating things like recipes and how to cover wastebaskets, I'm realizing why swingers' clubs sprang up. At least they get the boys and girls together. Is there any way, outside of swinging, that you can separate the men from the men at married peoples' get-togethers? — TIRED OF WOMAN TALK

DEAR TIRED:

If you gals constantly see yourselves as "woman talkers" or frustrated non-swingers, you'll always be consigned to the ladies' corner. Shift to interesting subjects, get animated discussions going, and the men will drift your way.

Trouble with many females is they've got this ingrained idea that men don't like women with brains. Try them and see! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

A long time ago I read a zany saying in your column: "I feed her books and feed her books but she only eats the covers," meaning the gal wasn't exactly a giant intellect.

She'd have a rough time at our library. I've been taking out paperback books (in great number) that appeared to be damaged, because the front and back covers were "patched" with opaque mending tape. Only the names showed.

One day I got curious, pulled the tape — and found out it was used as a "morality patch." The librarians evidently don't mind us READING hot stuff, but SEEING it on the cover is a nude of a different color.

How ABOUT that? — EDWIN

DEAR ED:

. . . It's kinda like putting panties on nude statues. Perhaps the librarians think "young eyes" need protection — and won't read on if the picture doesn't grab them. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Whatever happened to good old-fashioned street dances? Remember when they'd rope off a block, bring in a band and let 'er rip? No hall to rent or clean, no big cover charge, just a lot of fun with happy people.

Let's start a movement to bring back street dances. Right on, Helen — start it for us, please. — T.W. AND R.O.

DEAR T AND R:

Old-fashioned block parties are coming back. Will street dances be far behind?

All you need for a block party is good weather, a couple of organizers, an Occasion (July 4th inspired a rash of them) and (if big enough) city cooperation in closing off a street.

Everyone chips in for tappers and cold drinks; each family brings potluck — and the kids. On almost every block these days there's either a live teenage band or a loud hi-fi with amplifiers, so a dance would be a simple addition.

And block parties are fun. You finally get to meet your neighbors four doors up — something modern people all too often don't! — H.

WIELDING BRUSHES AND HAMMERS

Non-Prescription Sleeping, Pep Pills Thought To Be Drug Abuse

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Part of the story about drug abuse in this country pertains to commonly advertised sleeping pills and pep pills that are sold without prescriptions to people who not only don't need them but can sometimes get undesirable and dangerous side effects from them.

That is the feeling of Dr. charles Edwards, commissioner of the U. S. food and Drug Administration, as he testified recently before a Senate subcommittee headed by Senator Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.).

"The general tenor of these advertisements," he said, "is cleverly designed to create an unnecessary demand for the drug." Yet, as he explained, "there is no meaningful way for the consumer to weigh the need for such a drug."

HE SAID that "overuse and abuse of such drugs is encouraged" when consumers are induced to purchase them for putting them to sleep, calming frazzled nerves, relieving nervous tension, relieving irritability and eliminating fatigue without inquiring into the causes of such symptoms.

Dr. Edwards went on to say that these so-called "mood" drugs are "essentially ineffective in the dosages used and do have recognized side effects" which may be harmful.

He presented a list of 17 sleeping pills, each of which contain an antihistamine product called methapyrilene hydrochloride as one of its major ingredients. Yet the substance even at nearly twice the strength as in the pills has been found no more effective than dummy pills on insomniacs, according to Dr. Edwards.

ON THE other hand, he said, many people suffer untoward reactions, making them restless and nervous instead of relaxed. Other reactions include mouth dryness, blurring of vision, dizziness, ringing in the ears and gastro-intestinal irritations.

Other drugs used commonly in sleeping pills are salicylamide and scopolamine. According to Edwards, the rationale for the former in sleeping pills has not yet been established, and while the latter may contribute to a slight hypnotic effect, it also may be toxic to some people.

Sominex contains all three of these drugs, advertising itself as "the only leading sleep aid with three medical ingredients to quickly relax you and help you get to sleep . . . 100 per cent safe sleep."

YET, ACCORDING to a study done by Dr. anthony Kales reported by Edwards, Sominex tablets had no more effect than blank pills in inducing or maintaining sleep. Dr. Edwards added that two to four tablets or capsules could produce hallucinations in susceptible individuals.

He was particularly critical of sleep pills still containing bromide salts "despite the general disrepute of this drug in medical practice" because of undesirable side effects including chronic bromide intoxication.

Bromide salts have been eliminated from Bromo Seltzer but remain in Nervine, a well advertised sleeping pill and sedative.

ANOTHER WITNESS before the Subcommittee, Dr. Karl Rickels of the University of Pennsylvania, reported tests showing that neither Compoz, another widely known sedative, nor aspirin worked any better than blank pills in reducing nervous tension.

The principal ingredient of pep pills, such as Vivarin and No Doz, is caffeine in amounts of 200 and 100 milligrams of caffeine. Its main effect is nervousness.

For a table of chemical ingredients in 19 products sold as sleep aids, sedatives and stimulants, write to the FDA Information Office, Rockville, Md., 20852.

Wool Textiles

Textile manufacturers are turning out wool and wool blends in classic plaids and tweeds and in rich styles of tapestries and embroideries for the clothing market next season. Colors range from poster paint brights to the heather tones, according to Women's Wear Daily.

Smock-Shaped Dress Returning To Style

The dress is back for the upcoming season of holiday and resort wear. Newest shape is the smock or tent shape, but the one-piece dress that appears to be two-piece is also stylish for the coming season, reports Women's Wear Daily. Other styles are chemise, the sweater dress, the schoolgirl dress with white collar and cuffs and the wider shouldered dress.

The little girls dresses are mini length, the sophisticated theater-suit is below the knee and the print evening dress is ankle length. The mood of the outfit determines the length.

Parents Tell Daughter's Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Wadleigh of Suisun have announced the engagement of their daughter, Carolyn Wadleigh of Sausalito, to Peter Robbins Ashby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Ashby of Napa.

The couple will be married on Oct. 2.

A graduate of Dominican Convent and Dominican College, the bride-elect has been teaching three years at Pacheco School in Novato. She is now attending San Jose State College for the summer.

The future bridegroom was graduated from the University of California and is employed by the Bank of America. He is a member of the Bohemian Club.

Once faced with extinction, more than 15,000 American elks now live on the National Elk Refuge in Wyoming.

An offensive cooking odor, such as that of fish or cabbage, usually fades if a dish of cloves is placed in the oven at high temperature with the door open.

DRAMA REVIEW

A Slapstick Version Of 'The Imaginary Invalid'

By KAY KSANDA

After a full year of success with serious drama, the Mill Valley Center For The Performing Arts switched to French farce with Satuday night's performance of Moliere's "The Imaginary Invalid."

The result is more slapstick than French comedy. A devotee of Moliere might be disappointed by a lack of finesse, but that was the decision of the director, Charles Cherry, and we wouldn't quarrel with his choice.

Make-up and costumes are particularly clever, and the cast has a wonderful time. They are camp, and the show is funny; and it will be playing every Friday and Saturday night through August at 8:30 p.m. at the Mill Valley Golf Club, 267 Buena Vista Avenue.

Many critics still consider Moliere (after three centuries) the world's greatest writer of comedies. His satire and broad comedy continue to entertain the courts of Europe, as well as the little and big theatres of America. He draws broad characterizations of the fool, the popinjay, and the simpleton. He mocks false values, and ridicules the weaknesses of pride and position. In "The Imaginary Invalid" it is the hypochondriac, and 17th Century medical science as the targets. He shoots with sarcasm.

In "Invalid" as in his "School For Wives," and "Tartuffe," the hero is a bit of a fool. Argan, the hypochondriac, wishes to marry off his daughter to an awful lout so that he can have free prescriptions and medical service from the young man's father and uncle (both Parisian doctors.) Their services would hardly qualify them for our American Medical Association, but they were very satisfactory for their time, killing fewer than they cured.

"THE IMAGINARY INVALID" By Moliere, a (1673) French comedy in two acts. Directed and produced by Charles Cherry for the Mill Valley Center For The Performing Arts. Assistant director, Carol Kleine: costumes, Marcia Koski; lighting, Ellen Ernest; music, Jack Powell; sets, Roy Stevens, and make-up, Suede Barstow. The cast: Argan, Roy Stevens; Toinette, Joanne Kunz; Angelique, Sally Lynn Bauman; Beline, Marcia Koski; Bonnefoy, Dale Kleine; Cleante, Robert Van Praag; Dr. Diafoirus, R. Warren Spore; Tomas Diafoirus, Jack Powell; Louison, Bibi Small; Beralde, Dale Kleine; Fleurant, R. Warren Spore, and Dr. Purgon, Robert Van Praag.

The daughter, Angelique, is a dolt. Her true love, Cleante, is a jackass, and her stepmother, Beline, is almost a villainess. No one really cares if Angelique has to marry Thomas Diafoirus except the maid Toinette. She, for some reason (perhaps boredom) manages everybody's business, speaks her mind, disobeys all instructions, and fights for sanity and true love.

Thomas Diafoirus, played by Jack Powell, is a sensation! As the lout-fiance, he is great. His superb timing, glances and sighs, postures and speeches are high "nincompoopism." His father, the weird Dr. Diafoirus, and the frenzied-faggoty apothecary, are both played with polish and timing by the versatile R. Warren Spore.

Ray Stevens as the lead, Argan, shouts through most of the play, occasionally lapsing into an English dialect (or Scottish burr?) when particularly agitated. He has a great deal of difficulty keeping his dressing gown modestly together. It's a tricky role. Back in Paris in 1673, when Moliere (at the age of 51) played the central role of the invalid, he died during the performance . . . (which must have put his point across.)

The French maid Toinette is played by tall and handsome Joanne Kunz, who puts zest and clear diction into her performance. Sally Lynn Bauman as Angelique has a suprisingly lovely singing voice. She and Cleante (Robert Van Pragg) sing a duet where they both come off well. As her "beloved," Robert Van Pragg plays both a stupid oaf and the role of Dr. Purgon, another malicious medical man.

Beline, Argan's deceitful wife, is a funny and fatuous little creature. Marcia Koski creates a high believability in her characterization of the lady. Dale Kleine plays both the conniving lawyer and Argan's wise father in a nice shift of character; however, his "old-man" accent muffles some of the plays best lines, like his opinion of the medical profession:

"The great deceivers of the world begin by deceiving themselves."

DRAMA REVIEW

'Wind In The Willows' Fails To Ignite Any Real Chuckles

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

The Marin Shakespeare Festival ventured into a new theatrical avenue Saturday afternoon at Forest Meadows with a mediocre offering of A. A. Milne's "The Wind in the Willows."

Presented as a musical for the younger set, John Brebner's production lacked the sparkle to create any real outstanding moments and failed to generate any genuine excitement from the kiddies. I had expected more from the creativity of Brebner, the festival's founder.

The music, scored by Jim Mairs, one of the company's members, was lackluster. It failed to match the lyrics of Milne and Kenneth Grahame from whose book Milne penned the play.

"THE WIND IN THE WILLOWS" — A two-act play from book by Kenneth Grahame and adapted for the stage by A. A. Milne. A Marin Shakespeare Festival production. John Brebner, director; Jim Mairs, music and additional lyrics; Jack DeGovia, production design; Kathy Pike, costume design; Teddi Kern, Sue Pratt, Michael Lyon, dances. The cast: The River Bankers: Bruce Janger, Mole; Jim Mairs, Ratty; Jim Haran, Badger; Dan Birnbaum, Toad; Gary Berg (front) and David Saxon (back), Alfred the Horse; the Wild Wooders: Mara Finerty, chief weasel; Terry Stewart, chief ferret; Sara Light, chief stoat; Doug Broyles, the judge; Robert Flynn, the usher; Marc Nelsen; Robert Herrmann, a jailer; Mike McGowan, a policeman; Sue Pratt, Phoebe; Clairellen Waldeck, washerwoman, and Rebecca Ablin, Fred Dekker, Carol Nelson, squirrels.

Brebner updated the animal kingdom story with little success even though the use of motor bikes was a clever bit of staging.

The cast, too, was less than first rate. Dan Birnbaum as Toad was adequate as the lead, but I thought Bruce Janger as Mole, Jim Haran as Badger and Mairs as Ratty were too low-key to be convincing.

The only person who really seemed to create any real dramatic impact and a few chuckles was Doug Broyles as the judge.

The entire production should be seriously restudied because, as it is presently staged, it will not win any deep affection from the children.

The musical now joins the company's repertory.

Youth Injured

Dennis Waterman, 19, of 36 Greylawn Avenue, Petaluma, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for face cuts suffered at 10:50 p.m. yesterday when his car struck a tree at Webster Avenue and Hayes Lane.

Rite Set For 'Homer' Of Song Duo

LANSING, Ill. (UPI)—Hanry T. Haynes, the guitar-playing Homer in the country-singing, down-home comedy team of Homer and Jethro, will be buried Wednesday.

Haynes, 51, was preparing for a performance at the Great Midwest Fair Saturday when he complained of chest pains and shortness of breath. He died at a Hammond, Ind., hospital a few hours later.

Homer and Jethro (Kenneth Burns) first performed professionally as a team in 1939 at Tennessee's Renfro Valley Square Dance.

ZANY TOUCH

They blended solid country singing with Homer's fine guitar and Jethro's mandolin picking, then added a zany touch in their patter and songs that charmed millions of fans.

The duo's first million -seller record was "The Battle of Kukamonga", a parody of a 1950s top-of-the-chart tune. Hit record followed hit record and, by the time Homer and Jethro cut their last record some two months ago, they had 50 albums to their credit.

Comedian Archie Campbell, who worked with Homer and Jethro in a 1930s group called the "Stringbusters", recalled them as "the greatest musicians in the world. People don't realize they were great musicians even though their long suit was comedy. Lots of teams have come along since then but Homer and Jethro were the first of that type," Campbell said.

EXCELLENT GUITARIST

Homer also was an excellent guitarist. Chet Atkins, one of the best known Nashville stringmen, termed him "the finest rhythm-blues player in the world."

In recent years the team had branched into television and commercial work. A commercial they did in 1962 for Kellogg's Cornflakes, sitting around a table in country clothes, is widely remembered.

They became familiar to millions as frequent guests on television variety shows.

Haynes was survived by his widow, Elizabeth; three children, Kenneth, Tracy and Trenton; his mother; a brother, and two sisters.

Services are scheduled for 11 a.m. Wednesday at Schroeder-Lauer funeral home with burial at Chapel Lawn Memorial Gardens at Schererville, Ind.

Bagley Says Telegram Is Upsetting

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman William Bagley, R-San Rafael, disclosed Sunday that the agreement on a compromise welfare reform bill was nearly destroyed by a last-minute telegram sent to negotiators.

Bagley said the telegram was sent by the California Citizens Committee for the governor's welfare reform program, who chided the negotiators for not supporting all the provisions of Gov. Ronald Reagan's welfare plan. The organization was formed earlier this year with Reagan's endorsement.

Bagley, the chief Republican spokesman participating in the negotiations, said the telegram arrived "just in time to almost blow out of the water the carefully constructed compromise welfare package that had just been achieved."

Reagan and legislative leaders Friday accepted a compromise designed to save $130 million in California's almost $3 billion welfare program.

In responding to the committee, Bagley told the group:

"You send idiot telegrams at the very time that we (the negotiators) are in the final phases of agreement on a program that will work. My point ... is that we have just put together a program that will work, instead of one that wouldn't.

"And, that being done, you won't have welfare to kick around any more."

Joint Use Of Hamilton On Novato Agenda

The Novato City Council will consider proposed joint military-civilian use of Hamilton Air Force Base at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

Councilmen held a hearing last week on a proposal by Golden Pacific Airlines to operate four commuter flights a day from the base and a group of residents urged delay until the environmental impact of the proposed operation was studied.

The council will make its recommendation to the Marin County Board of Supervisors which will make the decision on joint use.

School Theft

Stereo and musical equipment valued at $505 were stolen Friday from Petaluma Senior High School, police reported. A window was broken to gain entry to the band room.

'Madame Butterfly' Highlights Inverness Music Festival Slate

Two performances of Puccini's opera "Madame Butterfly" — one Aug. 22 and 29 at 2 p.m. — will be the major effort of this year at the Inverness Music Festival.

Singing the title role in the amphitheater adjoining St. Columba's Church will be Japanese-born soprano Sumiyo Ender, winner of this year's San Francisco Metropolitan Opera auditions.

Pinkerton, the American naval officer who arranges a temporary marriage with Butterfly, will be sung by Austrian Karl Heinz Woss and James Gettys will portray Sharpless, the American consul.

Gettys has assisted with the musical preparation of the opera and will present a recital on Aug. 27 at 8 p.m. in the church.

Playing the servant Suzuki, Roberta Wain returns for her second season with the festival.

Other cast members are Carl Meggers, Goro; Sharon Meggers, Kate Pinkerton; William Huang, Prince Yamadori; Matthew Miksak, Bronze; Walter Hinton, imperial commissioner; Stephen Taylor, Yakuside; Greg Bellante, official registrar; Catherine Ford, mother; Sonya Lawson, aunt, and Alicia Patterson, the child Trouble.

Sam Shaffer returns for his fifth year as festival stage director, and the opera set was designed by the festival's art director, Nancy Blunk.

A special attraction of the opera — to be conducted from the piano by festival director Fae McNally — will be the Michiya Hanayagi Japanese Dancers.

Directing the off-stage chorus will be Darrell Parker, whose San Geronimo Valley Singers will perform the Bach B Minor Mass on Aug. 22 at 8 p.m. in the church and on Aug. 28 at 2 p.m. in the amphitheater.

Costumes of the Meiji period were designed and made by Tomiko Funatsu, with hair styling and makeup to be supervised by Boke Sakasai and Peter Barker.

Ticket information may be obtained by writing Box 2, Inverness, or by phoning the festival office.

Three Marin Instructors Are Cited

Three College of Marin instructors have been named as outstanding educators and will be featured in a national awards volume titled "Outstanding Educators of America."

James C. Dunn, Maryjane Dustan and Dr. Gordon Chan were nominated for the private publication by members of the college faculty and administration. The book will sell for $20.

Dunn is a drama instructor who directed the western version of "The Taming of the Shrew" which will be performed later this month at the Edinburgh Festival of the Arts in Scotland.

Mrs. Dunstan, a Fulbright scholar and lecturer, is co-author of "Worlds in the Making," a communications textbook used by many colleges and universities.

Dr. Chan is directing a study on marine life at Bolinas Lagoon after the oil spill in San Francisco Bay earlier this year.

Coast Guard Boat Overtakes Pirated Yacht

HONOLULU UPI — An armed Coast Guard cutter early today overtook a pirated yacht, from which a three-man crew had been set adrift, and turned her back toward Honolulu.

The cutter Cape Corwin overtook the 75-foot racing yacht Kamalii before dawn as a reconnaissance plane orbited overhead, dropping flames which lighted the calm waters of the Pacific Ocean.

A Guard spokesman said the three caucasian gunmen believed aboard the yacht turned on their lights and turned back toward Honolulu, indicating they were will to "cooperate" in the apparent surrender.

No immediate boarding was planned, but the cutter was following the yacht.

No Charge Filed For Assault, Armed Robbery

No charge has been filed in Marin municipal Court against Walter Sydney Boatwright, 22, of San Anselmo, arrested Thursday on suspicion of armed robbery and assault with intent to commit murder.

The district attorney's office said no complaint would be filed pending further investigation. Boatwright was released.

Boatwright was arrested by San Anselmo police after Pamela Mae Wilson, 19, told police that Boatwright and another man robber her of $45 at knifepoint at her home Thursday.

Boatwright, meanwhile, is awaiting charges of selling heroin to a Marin drug abuse agent.

$1 Million Haul In Drug Raid

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Local police and state narcotics agents seized $1 million worth of heroin and cocaine and arrested two men on illegal drug charges early today at an Olympic Boulevard motel.

Taken into custody were Sam Berumen, 37, owner of a downtown bar, and Auerilio Rodriquez, 39. Both men carried hand guns, officers said, but did not resist arrest.

The raiding officers seized 40 ounces of pure heroin and 42 ounces of pure cocaine which they said would be worth $1 million on the illegal drug market.

The arrests were the culmination of a six-week investigation.

Reductions Said Possible In Tiburon Police Costs

By SANDRA YOUNG

The proposal that Tiburon establish its own police department and sell police protection to Belvedere can be modified to save thousands of dollars, according to Tiburon City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer.

His recommendations — a series of choices — will be presented to the city council at 7:45 p.m. today and follow his review of a two-month study of police services in the two cities by Edward S. Kreins, former Sausalito police chief and presently chief in Pleasant Hill.

Specific modifications to Kreins's study are not listed in Balmer's report. However, he told the Independent-Journal costs were substantially decreased by cutting down the number of officers and patrolmen required and by prorating Belvedere's share of the cost according to population.

Balmer's proposal, like Kreins's, does not include manning a police substation in the Strawberry area where Tiburon officials have pledged one if proposed annexation of the area is successful.

The area proposed for annexation would be served by the Tiburon police force as a separate beat, according to Kreins.

Tiburon currently contracts with the Marin County Sheriff's Department for police protection and Belvedere operates its own department, but that contract will not be renewed when it expires July 1.

Balmer's report contains three of Kreins's five proposals with modifications: a police department covering Tiburon alone; a department over Tiburon and the proposed annexation area; and a force large enough to cover Tiburon and Belvedere with and without the annexation area.

Under Balmer's plan, protection of Tiburon alone would require 12 police officers and three clerk dispatchers for an annual cost of $214,000. The city now is served by seven officers and one dispatcher.

Kreins's estimate of $269,500 for Tiburon to operate its own police force included 14 policemen and three dispatchers.

Balmer said he thought Kreins's estimate of the number of policemen required was too high; he reduced the cost by $55,500 by eliminating two policemen and trimming operating expenses.

If Tiburon succeeds in annexing the Strawberry-Bel Aire-Eagle Rock area, manpower needs will increase to 16 officers and four clerk dispatchers, Balmer projects. He estimates cost of the operation would be $279,300.

Kreins made no estimate of officers and dispatchers required in the event of that annexation.

The third alternative would allow Belvedere to contract with Tiburon for needed police protection.

Without the annexed area, Balmer estimates a force of 17 officers and three clerk-dispatchers would be needed to cover Tiburon and Belvedere at a cost of $277,300. Kreins's estimate, which included 16 officers, four dispatchers and one parking officer, was $299,565 — about $20,000 higher.

Under Balmer's proposal, the cost would be shared by the two cities according to population. Tiburon would pay 70 per cent of the cost or $176,830 and Belvedere would pay $100,470 as its share.

Belvedere, with its own department of five policemen, spent $92,285 this year for police protection. In his report, Kreins recommended Belvedere pay only $65,984 for Tiburon's policing services with no regard to the population split.

If annexation is approved and the Tiburon police force protects the entire peninsula, Balmer estimates a need for 21 police officers and four clerk-dispatchers at a cost of $342,300 a year. Kreins did not estimate cost in this case.

With the inclusion of additional population through annexation under this plan, Belvedere would have only 20 per cent of the population. Tiburon would pay $247,992 and Belvedere, $94,308.

Consolidation of police services in the two communities was raised last December by Tiburon City Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood. A joint Belvedere-Tiburon citizens committee studied the idea and agreed it should be investigated by a consultant.

Kreins was hired to make the study. He received $2,500, with Tiburon contributing $2,000 and Belvedere, $500.

Study Of Point Reyes Traffic Set

Access to Point Reyes National Seashore will be of primary concern to Marin, the Marin County Planning Commission was told today.

Commissioner John F. West said the impact of seashore-bound traffic in Tamalpais, Lucas and Ross valleys will be given special attention in a report by a three-man committee of the commission who wil submit their findings Aug. 23.

West said the problem will be to provide adequate access to the seashore without burdening the county with more unwanted roads and highways.

The committee, composed of commissioners West, Rebecca Watkin and William E. Lynch, submitted a list of topics it will expand into reports for the commission.

Transportation impact both within the seashore and on the county, headed the list.

Other topics to be studied include: a possible change in classification of the seashore (whether it should be a national recreation area or a national park); the seashore's relation to Tomales Bay State Park and the proposed Golden Gate National Recreation Area, and the selection of a citizens advisory committee.

West said the report of the committee, along with the report of a committee appointed by the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission, will be forwarded to the Marin Board of Supervisors for that body's presentation at the public hearings Sept. 22-23 on the seashore masterplan and wilderness proposal.

Housing Panel Head Explains Unannounced Saturday Session

The executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority said today he "accepts full responsibility" for the unannounced meeting of the housing authority board Saturday.

Wallace K. Shepherd, who said there was no attempt on his part to violate the Ralph M. Brown Act which prohibits secret meetings, said Saturday's session was called to brief board members on negotiations to regain control of Marin City's undeveloped ridgelands.

Besides himself, Shepherd said the unannounced meeting was attended by Robert Pitts, redevelopment agency commissioner, Directors Philip S. Ehrlich Jr., James G. McDonald, Arthur Miller Jr., all housing authority directors, Keith Kelly, deputy director.

"There was no attempt to breech the Brown Act," he said adding that McDonald arrived late to the meeting and Miller left almost immediately to avoid a quorum and possible violation of the state's antisecret meeting law.

"I would like to emphasize that Miller left five minutes after McDonald arrived," he said. "There was no time to take any action."

However, McDonald told the Independent-Journal today that after he arrived 20 minutes late Miller did not leave and a quorum of directors was present throughout the rest of the two-hour meeting.

Shepherd also contended that the meeting was on the up and up since "it was actually" a strategy session of the negotiating teams of the housing authority and redevelopment agency.

He said the two agencies are currently negotiating with California Development Co. of New York for control of the ridgelands around Marin City as well as the redevelopment area in Marin City. Each agency has named two board members as negotiators.

However, two of the three housing directors who attended the meeting are not on the authority's negotiating team.

Shepherd's explanation was contradicted by McDonald who said all board members from the two agencies were invited to "a special meeting" to discuss the status of negotiations.

"Not everybody showed up though, because of the early hour," McDonald said, adding he had no idea the 7:30 a.m. meeting violated any law.

Saturday's session was roundly criticized by director Norman Campbell who refused to attend because "I don't feel there's any need for that kind of meeting."

The fifth housing authority director, Irving Perlman, agreed with Campbell today saying: "I hold that public authorities should hold public meetings. Anything we discuss should be known to the public."

Said Perlman, "I knew nothing of this meeting until I read it in the I-J."

Four Injured In Two-Car Crash On Highway 101

Four persons suffered minor injuries in a two-car crash at Highway 101 and Atherton Avenue, Novato, last night, city police reported.

A car driven by Franklin E. Hutto, 41, of Menlo Park, northbound on Highway 101, collided with a car driven by Edward Joseph Reilly, 52, of San Francisco, which entered the highway westbound from Atherton Avenue, officers said.

Reilly suffered back pains and his passenger, Bonita Gladys Reilly, 69, of San Francisco, suffered body bruises and scrapes. Hutto suffered minor cuts and his passenger, Gregg J. Hutto, 12, suffered pains of the chest and knees. All were treated at Novato General Hospital.

SAN QUENTIN STABBINGS

One Convict Dies; Guard, Another Prisoner Injured

One San Quentin convict was killed and a guard and another prisoner injured in apparently unrelated stabbings during the weekend.

A second guard suffered a heart attack after subduing an unruly inmate.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park gave this account today of the violence.

On Saturday, convict Edward H. Gonzales, 38, died about 40 minutes after being stabbed in his right chest. He was assaulted about 1:15 p.m. while watching television in a cell block recreational area.

Park said another prisoner was being held in connection with the murder.

Gonzales was serving a six-months-to10-year sentence for felony assault. He was sent to prison from Los Angeles County in 1968.

In the first stabbing yesterday, Jerry A. Story, 37, who is serving time for robbery and escape, was stabbed in the back with a rod-shaped instrument which was still in his back when he was found by guards.

The assault happened about 8:30 a.m. during the breakfast period.

Story, who was originally sent to prison from Kern County and is currently back in for parole violation, was reported in good condition today at the prison hospital.

There was no suspect in Story's stabbing, Park said.

In the third assault, correctional officer Robert Mays, 26, of San Francisco, was stabbed in the right side of his chest as he entered the Protestant chapel at the prison about 3 p.m.

Thinking that he had only been hit by his assailant, the guard chased down the convict and captured him.

He then realized he was bleeding, Park said, and was taken to the prison hospital. He was later transferred to Kaiser Hospital in San Francisco, where he was reported in good condition today.

Earlier yesterday afternoon, Sgt. James M. Euless, 39, suffered a mild heart attack after wrestling with a prisoner in the adjustment center at the prison, according to Park.

Euless was also reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital's heart unit.

Park said today that the stabbings seemed unrelated and did not appear to have racial overtones. Mays and his assailant are both black, he said; Gonzalez was of Mexican descent and tones. Mays and his assailants are both black, he said; Gonzalez was of Mexican descent and inmate Story is white.

Park said that a "few extra officers" were brought in today for the breakfast period, but that there were no general lockups or other precautions at the prison.

San Quentin was the scene on July 21 of the fatal stabbing of correctional officer Leo G. Davis, the first guard killed at the prison in 19 years.

Marriage Of Amato Dissolved

The wife of Joseph Amato, director of business services with the Marin County Schools Office, has been granted an interlocutory decree of dissolution of their marriage in Marin Superior Court.

Edith Amato cited irreconcilable differences in her petition for dissolution of the 20-year marriage.

Amato took the county school job last month after serving one year as superintendent of the Lagunitas School District and five years as an assistant superintendent with the Sausalito School District.

The couple were married in September 1950 and separated last March, according to Mrs. Amato's petition.

They have one child, Jennifer, 15.

Attorney's Sentence Is Under Way

San Rafael attorney Lawrence E. Weiss was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday to begin serving a five-day sentence for contempt of court.

Wiess, 29, of Point Reyes Station, was found in contempt in June by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court after Weiss walked out of his courtroom prior to the start of a trial for a San Quentin inmate charged with assaulting another prisoner.

Weiss, who had been appointed to represent the inmate, Louis N. Talamantes, had unsuccessfully attempted to remove Gardiner from the case.

When Talamantes interrupted the proceedings, the judge threatened to remove him from the courtroom. The lawyer then reportedly said the judge shouldn't be hearing the case and stormed out of the courtroom.

Gardiner fined Weiss $500 in addition to ordering him to jail for five days, and a state Court of Appeal in San Francisco last week upheld the judge's ruling.

Son Held In Beating, $10 Robbery

A 31-year-old man was arrested yesterday on suspicion of beating up his father and taking $10 from him, San Rafael police reported today.

Robert Alexander Donohue, 31, of no known address, was held in Marin County Jail on suspicion of armed robbery in lieu of $10,000 bail to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

Police reported that his father, Harold M. Donohoe, 70, of 105 First Street, Apt. 2, complained that about 9 p.m. yesterday his son hit him with his fist and fought with him to get some money. The elder Donohoe gave him $10 and the son left, police reported. There was a broken mirror in the house and the father had blood on his cheek and neck, according to police. Donohue was later arrested in the 800 block of Fourth Street.

Donohoe has been arrested 11 times since January 1967 on a variety of charges from purse snatching to narcotics. On April 12, 1969, he was sentenced to four months in the county jail and placed on three years probation for selling marijuana.

2 Cars Stolen In San Rafael

Two cars were stolen in San Rafael during the weekend, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

A 1963 Rambler, white over red, was taken from a parking lot at 820 D Street sometime between Aug. 3 and Friday, Leo Parades of 1333 Fourth Street, Apt. 8, San Rafael, reported to police.

A 1963 Chevrolet white over red was taken about 4:30 p.m. Saturday from the parking lot at 1 Northgate, George H. Hancock, 57, of 39 Cabrillo Drive, San Rafael, reported to police.

Two Hospitalized In Separate Crashes

Two persons were hospitalized with injuries received in two separate accidents over the weekend, San Rafael police reported.

Kenneth D. Emanuele, 6, of 260 Canal Street, Apt. 224, San Rafael, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital following surgery for a ruptured spleen, hospital officials reported.

According to police, Emanuele dashed out between two parked cars at 1:15 p.m. Friday. He was chasing another boy in front of his home on Canal Street. He was hit by a car driven by Mary Henry, 49, of 61 Canal Street, Apt. 1, police reported.

Elena S. Bales, 18, of 16 Loma Linda, San Rafael, daughter of Marin Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital with multiple cuts and bruises, hospital officials reported.

Miss Bales was eastbound on her bicycle on Fifth Avenue at 8:45 p.m. Saturday when a car cut the corner of B Street and hit her, San Rafael police reported.

Driver of the car, Gerald L. Scott, 22, no known address, was cited by San Rafael police for failure to yield the right of way and driving on the wrong side of the street.

Power To 1,800 Marin Homes Cut

Two separate power failures affected more than 1,800 Pacific Gas and Electric Co. customers during the weekend, Dist. Electrical Supt. Robert H. Williams said today.

The first occurred about 8:27 a.m. Saturday in Tamalpais Valley when an old splicing of a line came apart, Williams said. He said that a noise heard by residents was caused by the splicing failure.

Power was restored to 120 customers of the area by 1:50 p.m.

A car hitting a power pole at the intersection of Circle Drive and Indian Road in Los Ranchitos caused another power failure about 8:27 p.m. yesterday.

Williams said that 1,690 customers in the Terra Linda, San Anselmo and Los Ranchitos areas were affected. Power was restored at 9:03 p.m. to all but 40 homes in the immediate vicinity of the pole.

They went without electricity until about 7 a.m. today.

Joske Cancels Month's Meeting

The Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission will skip its meeting this month, parks and recreation director Pierre W. Joske has announced.

Joske said that it would be impossible to obtain a quorum of commissioners for the regular meeting date Wednesday, or any day later this month.

The commission's next meeting, on Sept. 7, will be devoted to a public hearing on the National Park Service master plan for the Point Reyes National Seashore, Joske said. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the board of supervisors chambers in the Civic Center.

Auto Is Looted

Someone took personal possessions valued at $365 from his car while it was parked in front of 2 Mountain View Avenue, San Rafael, about 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Thomas P. Riggs of Corona Del Mar, reported to San Rafael police.

Motorcyclist Hurt In Crash

James Donovan, 36, of 8 Montezuma Street, Forest Knolls was treated for multiple scrapes and bruises at Marin General Hospital yesterday following a motorcycle accident in Woodacre.

California Highway Patrol reported Donovan, who was riding a minibike was injured at 4:20 p.m. when he went through a stop sign on Carson Avenue, turned left onto Railroad Avenue and ran into the back of a parked pickup truck.

The truck was owned by John O'Brien of 2 Elm Avenue, Woodacre, officers said.

Stereo Theft

Paul Matson, 314 English Street, Petaluma, told police that a stereo tape deck and tapes valued at $150 were stolen from his car Saturday.

Expert's Latest Disaster Is Blamed On His Partner's Play

When I dropped into the Cavendish Club in New York a few weeks ago, within an hour nine people told me about Harry Fishbein's latest catastrophe. "Fishy," as he is affectionately known by practically all the good players of the world, has been an outstanding expert since the early days of contract bridge; and he didn't earn his reputation by underbidding. S t i l l, nine times out of ten Fishy's disasters are his partner's fault rather than his own. The most recent case is typical.

Opening lead — ♣ Q

IN EAST'S HAND

West led the queen of clubs, and E a s t won with the ace. East returned his eight of clubs to the king, and West signaled by dropping the jack. This unnecessarily high play indicated that West's side strength was in the higher of the two side suits.

There were actually three side suits, but South set to work on the hearts, just as the bidding indicated he would. On the third round of hearts, West discarded the deuce of spades, confident that this would not discourage his partner from leading a spade.

RETURNS SPADE

East r e t u r n e d a spade, whereupon West took the rest of the tricks. Fishbein took only three tricks at his contract of three notrump doubled.

"I never opened my mouth," North complained later to anybody who would listen. "Before I knew it, we were out 1,700 points. I wonder what Fishy's putting into his coffee these days!"

Fishbein's second bid of three no-trump indicated a hand that was just about worth an opening bid of two no-trump. Why had he opened with one heart instead? Probably because he had a five-card heart suit. Suspecting this, North should have opened his mouth instead of citing his silence as a virtue.

If North had bid four hearts, Fishbein would have gone down only one or two. A rudder isn't as big as a motor, but it will steer a huge ship to safety.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player bids two clubs.

You hold:
♠ - J 10 6 5
♥ - J 7 3
♦ - 10 9 8 5 2
♣ - 3.

What do you say?

Answer: Pass.

You would raise if partner had opened with one spade or one diamond, but the hand is simply too weak to raise partner when you have only three-card support for this suit.

Two Names For Same Animal

CHICAGO (UPI)—A big cat by another name might be the same animal.

The leopard and panther, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, are one and the same. The confusion in names apparently arises because of the great variation that occurs within the species.

In America the panther is the name for the puma.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Statistics Indicate Mortality Rate Among Males Is Higher

Thoughts of dying are much more unpleasant than the act itself. One must live to die and dying is a function of the aging process. Those left behind are grief stricken because they must go on without their loved one. Their sorrow often is subjective.

What are your chances of passing on, especially from an important cause? According to statistics, after the first decade, mortality rates generally advance with age and tend to be higher in males. These figures are usually stated on the basis of 1,000 persons. For example, if we take a random selection of 1,000 men, the insurance company expects 37 of them to die within the next five years (37 per 1,000) and 283 in 20 years (283 per 1,000). At age 15, the chances of death in 20 years increase from 37 to 788 (per 1,000) at age 65.

EVERYONE knows that cardiovascular diseases (CVD) are the No. 1 causes of death. The main reason for this is that infections have been subdued and people attain an age when cardiac dirorders are rife. If we conquered heart disease, cancer might move from second to first place. Furthermore, so many more males than females have been dying along the road of life that, by age 65, more women are left and the chance of succumbing to CVD is higher among females. The chances are 647 for males and 709 per 1,000 for females.

Mortality rates from a malignancy are about the same in both sexes. An exception is cancer of the respiratory system which is 4½ times greater in males. At age 45, the chances of dying from cancer in 20 years is 58.8 for men and 48.5 per 1,000 for women.

AS FOR accidents, the death rate is higher among males, especially in the younger age groups. But with age, it decreases and by 45, the chance of dying from an accident during the next 20 years is less than 5 per 1,000. Most of these are auto fatalities, but after age 65 other forms of accidents pose a threat, especially to women.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

ALLERGIC OFFSPRING

N. writes: If both parents have allergies, should cow's milk be omitted from their child's diet?

REPLY

In these circumstances, 75 per cent of the offspring become allergic. Cow's milk is likely to cause asthma, eczema or hives in these youngsters. Hence soybean milk or another substitute should be used.

UNATTRACTIVE NECK

A reader writes: I'm an entertainer who is distressed by a roll of fat that has formed at the base of the neck below the scalp. Can anything be done about this ugly roll of fat?

REPLY

ECZEMA OF THE EARS

D. T. S. writes: Is there a cure for eczema of the ear?

REPLY

Yes, but it will take some investigation as to the cause before an answer can be given. Bacteria, fungi, and allergy are common causes. In some instances, eczema disappears when the individual keeps the ear clean and dry.

ENLARGING THYROID

S.L. writes: Is an enlarging thyroid part of the aging process in a 54-year-old woman?

REPLY

No. Changes in size are due most frequently to tumor, infection, and toxic or simple goiters.

Today's Health Hint — Overweight diabetics have a high mortality rate.

French A-Test Draws Protest

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan today protested against the latest French nuclear test in the South Pacific.

In a statement issued by Tsutomu Wada, director general of the foreign ministry's information department, the Japanese government said:

"Japan has repeatedly expressed its opposition against any nation's nuclear test.

"It was extremely regretable for France to ignore our repeated protests (against the test).

"We, wishing the peace and security for mankind, hereby again, strongly demand for an immediate halt of the test."

France detonated its fourth nuclear explosion at the Mururoa reef in the South Pacific Sunday.

2 Elderly Men Kill Each Other

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Two octogenarian men shot each other to death in an argument during a poker game Saturday night.

The men, Ollie Williams, 87, and Charles "Chalkie" Wright, 81, were playing poker with two women, aged 40 and 64. Police said an argument started when one of the women started bragging about beating the other one at cards.

Police said Wright finally drew a gun, and Williams ran into the kitchen and also got a gun. Several shots were fired by each man, and both were dead at the scene when police arrived.

The shooting happened at the home of Houston Moore, 87, also a participant in the poker game.

An Uninvited Guest-Elephant

LIGONIER, Ind. (UPI)—Mrs. Bea Warner had a guest for breakfast recently. She didn't like the idea and called police.

Officer Paul Pfenning went to Mrs. Warner's home. Sure enough, there was a "guest"—an elephant trampling through her garden.

Pfenning went to the Cark & Walter Circus, which is playing an engagement here. The beast's trainer accompanied the policeman back to the Warner home and led the elephant back to the circus grounds.

Mrs. Warner said the elephant not only trampled and ate some of her vegetables, but also was able to turn on a hose faucet and get himself a drink of water.

Youth, 17, Will Run For Council

BROOKLYN, Ohio (UPI)—Ronald Hasman, 17, has filed to run for the city council of this Cleveland suburb.

He will turn 18 on Sept. 9, less than a month before the November election. Wednesday he registered to vote and filed his petitions of candidacy at the same time.

"If elected I will start youth activity centers to help stop the drug problem and give kids something to do and a place to go," Hasman said. "I decided to run not only for the experience but because I believe I can better represent youth and bring about change."

His only previous political experience was an unsuccessful campaign for high school class president.

Controversial Issues On Board's Meeting Agenda

Marin County supervisors will hold hearings tomorrow on several controversial issues that had to be delayed last week when only three board members were present.

The supervisors will meet at 9 a.m. in the board hearing room at the Marin Civic Center.

Chief among the held-over items will be the proposal to rescind the West Marin Master Plan adopted in 1967. The board has received 38 letters from individuals and organizations, all supporting repeal and urging preparation of a new plan.

Also held over was a hearing on protests by San Geronimo Valley and Point Reyes Station residents against closing the branch libraries at Forest Knolls and Point Reyes Station. County Librarian Bruce D. Bajema had ordered bookmobile service substituted for the branches to meet budget restrictions.

Selection of a concession operator for the bar in the Marin Veterans Memorial Building, put over from last week to allow the Marin Economic Opportunity Council time to prepare its proposal, also is scheduled.

Other items on the board's agenda include:

HOUSEBOATS — Marine Inspector Richard L. Larson will ask approval of demolition of the so-called Holtzinger barge bearing the old Spreckels summer home, which had been converted into five apartments. Buyer Ann Carrol had received a 30-day stay of abatement to try to locate a new barge to put under the structure, but failed, Larson will report.

SUICIDE PREVENTION — The Marin Association for Mental Health will seek $6,000 to finance operation of the new Marin Suicide Prevention Center switchboard operation. The county administrator's office has recommended the funding be postponed to next year's budget.

MOTEL — Continued hearing on a challenge of the design of the Howard Johnson motel on Richardson Bay is scheduled.

MINING — A proposed ordinance restricting surface mining and quarrying, prepared by the county Natural Resources Committee and the planning commission, will be presented.

AGRICULTURAL — For the second time, the board will hear a proposed amendment increasing the minimum lot size of A-2 zoning from 7,500 square feet. The board rejected planning commission recommendations in June for a half-acre minimum in favor of a two-acre minimum. The planning commission, after another hearing, repeated its half-acre recommendation.

PARENTHOOD — The board will be asked to amend policy to permit referral to the county health services department for vasectomies (male sterilization).

Metric System Bid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., has introduced legislation calling for a nationwide conversion to the international metric system within 10 years.

Council Adds $8,200 To Rec Budget

The Mill Valley City Council, at a special budget session, has agreed to add $8,200 to the city's proposed parks and recreation budget for 1971-2, bringing the total proposed spending program to $331,342, City Mgr. William H. Cunningham reported Friday.

He said the council Thursday voted to spend $2,500 to improve the entrance to the city's recreation center, work necessitated by the widening of Camino Alto, where the facility is located. Also approved were expenditures of $3,200 for playground equipment for Boyle Park and $2,500 for improvements to restrooms in old Mill Park.

The proposed parks and recreation budget also includes $152,000 for salaries (including a 7.5 per cent salary package — raises and medical and dental plans) approved last week by the council.

Other expenditures: $136,000 for materials, supplies and services, including maintenance of all parks and green areas, the harbor, golf course and recreation facilities; $30,000 for salary costs (social security and retirement) and $14-15,000 for capital outlay.

The city council also added $2,000 to the library budget for book purchase, bringing that spending program to $145,155 and met in closed session with its negotiators to discuss salary negotiations with the city's police and firemen.

The next budget study session, to discuss revenue sources and the city's tax rate, will be held at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow in city hall. At 7:30 p.m. tomorrow, the council will meet in closed session to continue its instructions to its negotiators.

Skyline Is Solid In Mobile Home Field

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I just inherited 125 shares of Skyline Corp. I believe this was bought fairly recently. I know nothing about the stock; am young and wonder if I should keep it for future growth. — D.B.

A. Skyline Corp. is a leading manufacturer of mobile homes and recreational vehicles and accounts for roughly 12 per cent of industry sales. The company has an extremely broad product line, producing over 400 models.

Unlike some of the other firms in the mobile home sector, Skyline maintained its growth despite the tight money conditions of 1969-1970, ringing up its 11th consecutive year of rising sales and earnings, enlarging its production facilities while increasing its operating efficiency. The company's sales rose 20 per cent to $252.4 million, while net was up 30 per cent to $14.4 million, or $1.28 per share in the year ended May 31. This rate of growth is expected to continue over the near future.

Although the stock does fluctuate widely, Skyline is one of the more conservative issues among the mobile home group and offers quality participation in this fast-growth industry. Hold.

Q. For years we received regular payments from bond interest coupons we have held in New York Central R.R. 4½s of 2013. I know that this road has become bankrupt, but will our coupons be paid as soon as funds are available? — S.L.

A. All obligations of N.Y. Central were assumed by Penn Central upon merger on Feb. 1, 1968. All interest on coupons had been met and paid since issuance of the original bonds in 1921 until October, 1970, when the first payment was missed. Unfortunately, this reorganization is likely, in my opinion, to be costly and complicated. I see little hope for even a moderately fast settlement, for the case is apt to be in the courts for years.

These bonds are currently selling at around $120 and there appears small likelihood of any interest being paid for some time to come. It is advisable to sell.

Pressure On Dollar Felt: Stocks Drop

NEW YORK (UPI) —A slow, first hour stock market deepened during the second hour of trading today. Turnover was moderate.

Analysts said the setback stemmed largely from economic uncertainty and pressure on the dollar on world money markets.

The U. S. dollar plunged to its lowest level in 22 years on the Frankfurt money market.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a loss of 0.14 at 94.11.

Of 1,363 issues across the tape, 625 declined, while 424 advanced.

Prices also eased in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Among the most active Amex issues were United Foods up slightly on around 30,000 shares, Topper down fractionally on 12,000 shares, and Kinney preferred "C" also down slightly on a volume of 11,000.

On the Big Board, chemicals surrendered fractions. Motors, steels, oils, rails, airlines and electronics were fractionally irregular.

Gold mining stocks, which normally fare well during a monetary crisis, held true to form.

NEW SMOG FIGHTER — The Autoscan 700 CO/Hydrocarbon Analyzer, manufactured by Autoscan, Inc., of Los Angeles, measures automobile exhaust pollutants in the service garage — or at curbside, as part of the California Highway Patrol's roadside testing program. The new device measures carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons in automobile exhaust.

Device Analyzes Auto Exhausts At Curbside, Service Garage

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — Autoscan, Inc., has recently made available to the automotive service industry and air pollution control officials a device which enables automobile smog testing to be done in the corner garage or even at curbside.

The Autoscan 700 CO/Hydrocarbon Analyzer by using infrared sensors measures carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons emitted by automobile exhaust systems. It is already in service in all Volkswagen and Mazda dealerships in California, as well as many Porshe service facilities.

The prototype of a similar device developed by Autoscan, Inc., has been selected by the California Highway Patrol to use in its expanding roadside testing program.

California has added emission testing to its roadside inspection program administered by the CHP, and under Section 27157 of the Motor Vehicle Code, owners of automobiles manufactured from 1966 to 1971 can be cited for excess emissions.

According to the firm early indications are that the tester is also a successful auto service diagnostic tool, since by indicating excessive pollutants in auto exhaust the Autoscan 700 can signal its operator there is trouble somewhere in the engine.

"We have been striving to perfect a simple system for testing automobile air pollutants ever since the company has been in existence," said George Eisler, president of Autoscan.

In 1967 Autoscan, Inc., was the first U.S. firm to develop a "smog sniffer" to measure auto exhaust-produced hydrocarbons outside of the laboratory.

"We believe that major progress cannot be made in the control of auto air pollution so long as there is no effective way to test cars that are in actual day-to-day service after they have left the control of the factory," Eisler said.

"Testing and measuring techniques have been largely confined to laboratories up to now. We have been dedicated to moving out of the lab and into the service facility with this capability."

The Autoscan device comes with automatic calibration equipmepnt, can be warmed up and ready to use in less than five minutes and if left in continuous operation needs calibration checking only once a week.

PACKED NEW HOME — This was the scene yesterday as the San Francisco 49ers opened play in their new home at Candlestick Park before a capacity crowd of 40,000 fans. The 49ers defeated the Cleveland Browns, 38-24.

Candlestick Winds Fail To Hamper 49er Breeze

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The San Francisco 49ers have now been introduced to the winds of Candlestick Park, but they didn't let that spoil their debut in their new home.

In their exhibition season opener Sunday against Cleveland, the defending National Football Conference Western Division champions breezed by the Browns, 38-24, before an estimated 40,000 fans.

San Francisco quarterback John Brodie, who started and led the regulars to three touchdowns and a 21-0 first quarter lead, was a victim of the wind once when one of his deep passes to wide receiver Gene Washington hung badly and was intercepted. But Brodie wasn't complaining.

"We'll just have to learn how to play the wind," Brodie said. "I think we can. It doesn't seem to be blowing from one end to the other. More from one side to the other, and gusting a little."

Washington, who caught two Brodie bombs for touchdowns, saw a way the wind could be used to the 49ers advantage.

"If the ball is going to hang up on long passes," he said, "we'll know that and we can let the defensive back run by and come back for those."

Reserve quarterback Steve Spurrier, who played most of the game and scored the clinching touchdown in the fourth quarter on a 19-yard bootleg play, seemed perplexed by the wind's sudden appearance and disappearance.

"It's calm now," Spurrier said after the game. "It seems to be strictly a 2 o'clock wind. it's not there at 11 and 4."

But wind or no wind, the 49ers showed they are ready for the new season, and San Francisco coach Dick Nolan was pleased with his squad's first outing. He called a 29-yard ramble by rookie running back Vic Washington a "great run" and said his other top rookie back, Nebraska's Joe Orduna, did not have much of a chance to show his skill.

San Francisco scored the first time it had the ball on Brodie's 50-yard bomb to Washington. Then fullback Ken Willard plunged eight yards for the second score after linebacker Frank Nunley intercepted a Mike Phipps aerial. On the next series, 49er linebacker Skip Vanderbundt picked off another Phipps pass and returned it 45 yards for the third score.

Cleveland came to score twice in the second quarter on a one-yard plunge by Bo Scott after a 58-yard drive and on a Phipps pass 17 yards to rookie Paul Staroba.

Brodie opened the third quarter with a 45-yard touchdown toss to Washington, but the Browns closed the gap on a 28-yard field goal by Don Cockcroft and a 23-yard scoring strike from Phipps to Gary Collins midway through the final period. But Spurrier iced the game with his run with less than three minutes to play.

HOST EAGLES TONIGHT

Raiders To Go All Out

OAKLAND (UPI) — Two different coaching philosophies could make for a very interesting evening when the Oakland Raiders open their exhibition season tonight against the Philadelphia Eagles at 8 o'clock.

The Raiders' John Madden approaches the pre-season as a time for testing and experimentation. He likes to give the rookies a lot of playing time, although he will start with a veteran starting unit tonight.

But Philadelphia coach Jerry Williams has indicated he has just the opposite approach toward the pre-season games. Coming off a poor 3-10-1 record last season, Williams says he wants to develop a winning attitude in the exhibition games.

Madden will get a good look at his six top rookie draft choices and will start one — no. 1 selection Jack Tatum — tonight. Tatum will start at free safety.

Madden said he is "excited" about the other five — Bowling Green linebacker Phil Villapiano, Penn State center Warren Koegel, USC running back Clarence Davis, Stanford tight end Bob Moore and USC linebacker Greg Slough.

"Some of them," Madden said, "could be starters this season.

Some new veteran faces will see some action tonight, too, for the Raiders. Among them are Bob Brown, who was obtained in a trade with Los Angeles and will start at offensive tackle, and trade acquisitions Ron Mix, tackle from the Chargers; Tom Maxwell, defensive back from the Colts; and Bill Enyart, linebacker from Buffalo.

Madden will start Daryle Lamonica at quarterback, but will alternate him with lefthander Ken Stabler. Other offensive starters include tight end Ray Chester, wide receivers Warren Wells and Fred Beletnikoff, guards George Buhler and Gene Upshaw, tackle Art Shell, running backs Charlie Smith and Hewritt Dixon and center Jim Otto.

Other defensive Raiders' starters include ends Al Dotson and Ben Davidson, tackles Carleton Oats and Tom Keating, linebackers Duane Benson, Dan Conners and Gus Otto, safety George Atkinson and cornerbacks Nemiah Wilson and Willie Brown.

The Eagles will be starting a new quarterback, veteran Pete Liske, who was acquired from Denver.

Giants Come Home After A Troublesome Road Trip

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The San Francisco Giants ease back into town today after a short but troublesome road trip that narrowed their first place National League West division lead to five games over Los Angeles.

San Francisco split a doubleheader Sunday with Chicago, taking the opener 4-2 but falling in the second, 8-0, while the Dodgers were registering a 4-2 win over St. Louis.

San Francisco gets a day off today before opening a home stand Tuesday night against Montreal.

The Giants had to go 11 innings to win the first game Sunday, but Gaylord Perry pitched strongly and went the distance, gaining his 11th victory in 20 decisions.

Shortstop Chris Speier won the game in the 11th with a single to center, driving in two runs after the Giants had loaded the bases with one out.

Billy Williams' two-run homer in the fourth inning had given the Cubs a 2-1 lead, but

A's Are Unruffled By Double Setback

OAKLAND (UPI)—Even a doubleheader loss these days can't shake Oakland A's Manager Dick Williams, who acts like the man who knows where the body is buried.

Obviously, it must be buried in Oakland because even after the Chicago White Sox had whipped the A's, 9-7 and 3-1 Sunday, Williams smiled and joked with newsmen while munching on a piece of cold chicken.

"No one likes to lose two," he said, licking his fingers for emphasis, "But we're still in good shape."

That has to rank as the understatement of the year because the A's are more than in good shape. In fact, they're just playing out the season with a fat 13½ game lead and only 49 games left to play.

"We hit good in the first game," Williams said of Sunday's twin loss, "But our pitching went sour, and in the second Wilbur Wood just pitched a helluva game."

The White Sox raked Cuck Dobson for 10 hits and added five more off two relievers in the first game and in the second they got about as much mileage as you can get out of six hits while Wood, who throws his knuckler about 80 percent of the time, was taming the A's on six hits.

Reggie Jackson had four hits in five at-bats while Tommy Davis added two hits and Gene Tenace hit a homer to lead a nine-hit attack in the opener, but it all went down the drain because the White Sox, who now have won 14 of their last 20 games, had bigger guns—namely Walt Williams, Mike Andrews and Ed Herrmann, who drove in two runs each.

Tenace, filling in for Dave Duncan, also homered in the nightcap—with two out in the ninth — to spoil Wood's bid for a shutout.

Novato's Ruth Team Wins Title

Novato's all-victorious 13-year-old Babe Ruth Baseball League team, with the California State championship already in its pocket, was in Brawley (Imperial County) today to begin their quest for further honors in the Western Regional Championships beginning tomorrow night.

Led by the bat and glove of third baseman Barry Leslie, Novato conquered Rancho Cordova 8-3 Saturday night in the State finals at Wasco (Kern County) after previously disposing of Salinas, Visalia and Menlo Park.

Manager Bob Simi and the Novato lads left Wasco yesterday morning for Brawley where they will open the Regional schedule tomorrow against Mexico.

Leslie's two-out, three-run double in the fifth inning highlighted a four-run rally that sealed the doom of Rancho Cordova. His hit scored Mike Moroski, Chris Purdy and John Weston. The inning's other run was scored by Glen Dunbar by Weston's infield hit.

Leslie also started three double plays from third base.

Novato had taken a 4-0 lead with two runs in each of the second and third innings. Bases loaded walks by Weston and winning pitcher Mike Moreno forced in the first two runs while Purdy's two-run single made it 4-0 in the third.

This week's Regional Tournament at Brawley is the final stop on the Babe Ruth 13-year-old level.

A Big Win For Novato All-Stars

Their sixth straight victory Saturday earned the Novato Little League All-Stars a trip to Campbell near San Jose this week where they will compete in the Divisional Tournament starting Friday.

Manager Sheridan Moats' Novato team captured the Section II championship Saturday at Vacaville with a 9-5 victory over the Airport All-Stars of Sacramento in a game highlighted by hard hitting and a spectacular defensive play be second baseman Phil Sorenson. Sacramento had the bases loaded in the sixth inning with no outs when Sorenson speared a hard line drive and rifled it to third base for a double play helped Novato get out of a bad situation.

Ernest Galliani was the winning pitcher, according to Moats.

If Novato wins at Campbell, it then would qualify for the Regional Tournament in San Bernardino the following week.

The Novato team will leave for Campbell tomorrow and will stay in private homes as temporary foster children.

San Diego Gets 6 Warrior Games

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors, formerly the San Francisco Warriors, didn't make it to San Diego for half of their 1971 home National Basketball Association games, but they will be there for six home contests.

Warriors owner Franklin Meeuli earlier had been negotiating with San Diego officials for a half-and-half home game agreement, with the second half being played in Oakland.

Now the Warriors announced over the weekend six home games in 1971 will be played at the San Diego sports arena, and the remaining 35 will be played at the Oakland Coliseum arena. Last season the Warriors played their home games in the Cow Palace, San Francisco Civic Auditorium and the Oakland Coliseum arena.

Table Tennis Star To Play At Strawberry

The Eugene, Ore. resident is on a nationwide tour that has featured an unbeaten string of 72 games completed in one day.

Paddles will be provided for the 2:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. challenge rounds.

Cowboys Sign USC Lineman

DALLAS (UPI)--The Dallas Cowboys Sunday signed its No. 1 draft choice, defensive linemen Lawrence "Tody" Smith of the University of Southern California.

Smith signed a "multi-year contract" for an unspecified amount of money, a team spokesman said.

'Strongest Man' Give U.S. Big Lead In Pan-Am

CALI, Colombia (UPI)—Two Marines, a sailor and an Air Force sergeant toss leather for the United States tonight in boxing finals in the Pan American Games in an effort to swell the already huge American lead in medals.

The United States won eight Gold Medals Sunday—Four of them by a 295-pound record-breaking Sampson named Ken Patera of Minneapolis, Minn., in super-heavyweight weightlifting where he set four Pan-American records.

The other four were in swimming, and they ran the U.S. total of Gold Medals to 79 against 19 for Cuba. In total medals, the U.S. had 165 against 79 for Cuba and, with four days left in competition, the U.S. stands 60 medals short of its performance at Winnipeg in 1967.

In tonight's boxing finals at the Cali Bull Ring, the U.S. is represented in four finals and Cuba in four, with the only toe-to-toe clash between the two top contending nations in the welterweight class where Larry Carlisle, a Marine sergeant from Tarawa Terrace, N.C., clashes with Cuban Emilio Correa.

Duane Bobick, a 6-3, 205pound Navy quartermaster from Bowlus, Minn., bids for the heavyweight championship against Mexico's Joaquin Rocha, while Raymond Russell, a tall, skinny Marine sergeant from Cincinnati, goes in the light-heavyweight final against Waldemar Oliveira of Brazil, and Jerry Otis, an Air Force sergeant from Bremerton, Wash., meets Faustino Quinales of Venezuela in the middleweight windup.

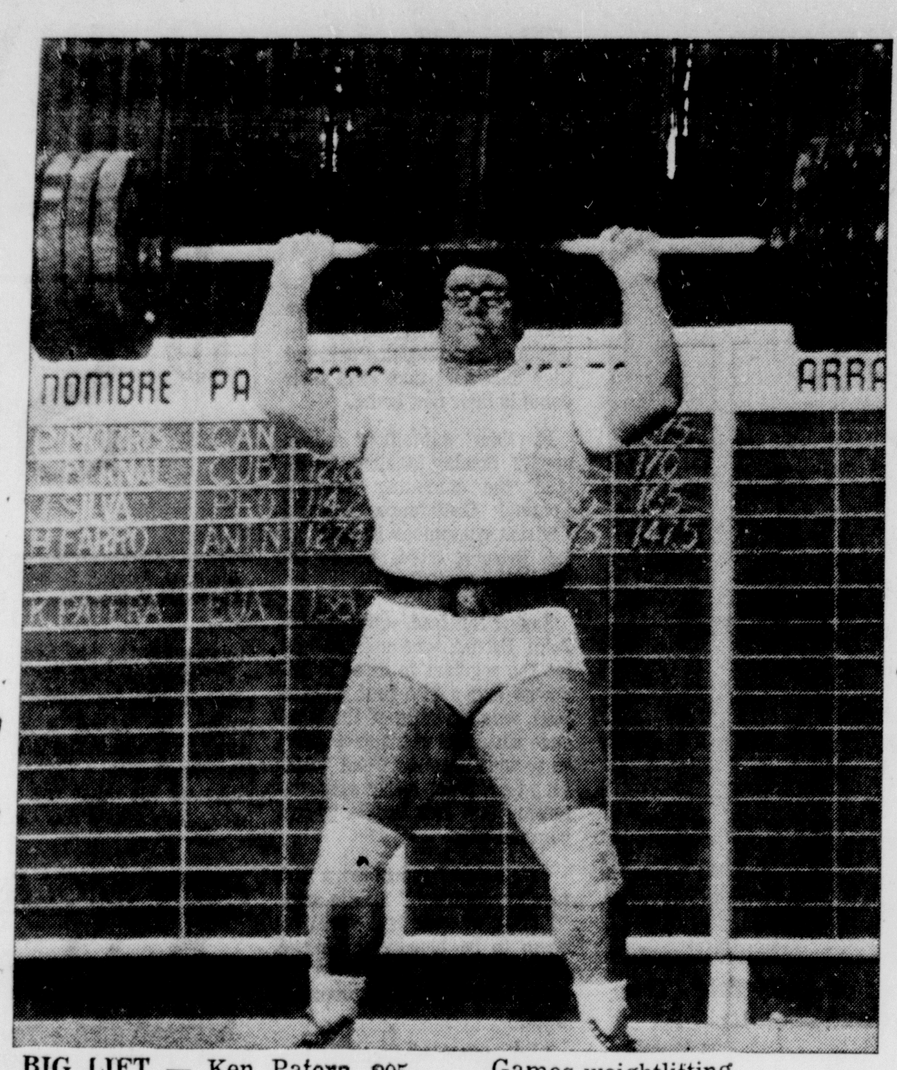
Seven finals also are scheduled in swimming and the U.S. is again expected to win the lion's share.

Weightlifting, however, is over but that gold mine yielded 19 first places out of a possible 34 to the Yanks before closing. Patera set a Pan-Am record for each of the three lifts and another for his overall total of 1,309 pounds. Patera, called by his coach "the strongest man in the world," won despite being ill with intestinal trouble in recent days.

The daily U.S. bag of victories in swimming included three pan-american records in three men's events.

Jim McConica of Ventura, Calif., set one in leading a 1-2 sweep in the men's 400-meter freestyle in 4:09.0. Charlie Campbell of Pasadena, Calif., had another in leading another 1-2 sweep in the men's 200 meter backstroke in 2:10.8. And Rick Colella of Seattle, beat out Mexico's Felipe Munoz in the men's 200-meter breaststroke.

The fourth victory was a rare one, because it came in a women's event. Deana Deardruff, 14, of Cincinnati, turned back the bid of Canada's Leslie Cliff for a fourth Gold medal by winning the women's 100-meter butterfly in 1:06.2.



BIG LIFT — Ken Patera, 295-pound "world's strongest man," smashed four Pan American Games weightlifting records yesterday to win four gold medals for the United States. (UPI Telephoto)

GIANTS

Perry tied the game with two out in the fifth with his third career homer.

Williams came back to haunt the Giants in the second contest, though, hitting two more homers and driving in five runs.

Veteran righthander Milt Pappas, who had dropped four straight to San Francisco, including three this season, picked up his 13th win in the nightcap against 10 losses and beat the Giants for the first time since Aug. 13, 1970.

Lefty Ron Bryant (7-9) absorbed the loss for the Giants, going four innings and allowing seven hits and four runs.

The Cubs' Glen Beckert also got three hits in the first game and four in the second to raise his batting average to 3.58 and take over the league batting lead from Joe Torre of St. Louis.

Petty Wins 500-Mile Auto Race

ONA, W. Va. (UPI)—Top NASCAR money-winner Richard Petty won the West Virginia 500 Sunday at International Raceway Park, finishing two laps ahead of Bobby Allison.

Petty, driving a 1971 Plymouth, led for 312 laps and picked up $2,300 of the $17,000 purse, plus 100 points.

Allison, of Hueytown, Ala., held the lead for 168 laps in a 1970 Mustang, adding 100 Grand American points to his record and $1,500 to his winnings.

Jim Hylton of Inman, S.C., second to Petty in points standings, came in third in a 1970 Mercury, picking up $950 of the purse.

Track officials said a new record average speed of 73.805 was set. Tiny Lund of Cross, S.C., placed fourth in a 1970 Camaro, and Cecil Gordon of Arden, N.C., came in fifty in a 1970 Ford.

Thirty-five drivers started the race.

Rosewall Wins U.S. Net Title

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UPI)—Ken Rosewall was 18 when he won the Australian and French tennis championships in 1953.

He was another in the long line of Australian tennis greats and most observers expected great things of him. But it's doubtful anyone would have dared predict such greatness 18 years later.

Now 36, the 5-foot-7, 140-pound marvel demonstrated once again Sunday why he is unrivaled on the tennis court — this time by winning the U.S. Professional Tennis Championships for the third time.

Rosewall, only sixth seeded in the $50,000 tournament, put on a dazzling display of shotmaking to demolish South Africa's Cliff Drysdale, 6-4, 6-3, 6-0, and leave an overflow crowd of 5,500 at Longwood Cricket Club shaking their heads in disbelief.

"His accuracy was uncanny," said Drysdale, who upset Tom Okker and top-seeded John Newcombe to become the first non-Australian to reach the finals in seven years.

"What can I say, he murdered me," added the third-seeded Drysdale. At one point in the 1 hour, 44-minute match, the South African screamed in frustration, "On the line, another one."

Rosewall, who won $10,000 in capturing his fourth title of the year, said Drysdale was tired because of his marathon five-set victory over Newcome in the semi-finals Saturday.

$11,000 Victory For Billie Jean In Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — Spunky Billie Jean King earned $11,000 in prize money—the largest check ever in women's tennis—for dazzling singles and doubles wins in the $40,000 Virginia Slims International Sunday.

Mrs. King, the No. 1 seed, fought her way past seventh seed Kerry Melville of Melbourne, Australia, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1, in the singles finals to pick up a $10,000 prize.

Mrs. Melville, who made 22 errors the first set, won $5,500 for finishing second.

Mrs. King and Rosie Casals of San Francisco, Calif., teamed up in doubles to defeat Francois Durr of France and Judy Dalton of Melbourne, Australia, 6-3, 1-6, 6-2. Each winner received $1,000.

Shaky Heard Gets First Golf Title

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—"There are actually only two players within reach of me and they're both giving me five shots," Jerry Heard said before teeing off in the final round of the American Golf Classic Sunday.

"That's too many," he said.

It was, by three strokes, but Heard admitted later the pressure got to him as he staggered home to victory with a final round four-over-par 74 and 275 total.

"I didn't play well at all," he conceded. "I was very fortunate I had the lead I had. I was wound up tighter than a spring."

The victory, Heard's first, was worth $30,000 to him. But his final round was the highest by a winner on the PGA tour this year.

"What really bothered me was when I got up in the morning, I was so wound up," Heard said. "I was going crazy before we teed off. I didn't eat breakfast and I don't like to read the papers, so I didn't know what to do."

Fortunately for Heard, the guys chasing him had problems of their own.

Dale Douglass and Gay Brewer, who were tied for second at the start of the final day, five strokes off the lead, had only two birdies between them and shot 72 and 77, respectively.

Douglass collected $17,100 for second place when he made an 18-foot birdie putt at No. 18 for a 278 total while Bob Murphy finished third with a closing 67 and 279.

Jack Nicklaus finished fourth at 280 with an even-par 70 Sunday and Steve Reid, with a 71, was at 281. Arnold Palmer, Chi Chi Rodriquez and Mike Hill were at 282 and Brewer and five others had 283s.

Heard, who had only two bogeys and did not three-putt a green through the first 54 holes (he had rounds of 67-66-68), had five bogeys, including three three-putt greens, Sunday.

"The victory boosted Heard's moneywinning total for the year to $100,048, making him the sixth player to win more than $100,000 in 1971 and also the sixth to score his first victory in a major event. He was the youngest player ever to win the Classic.

Spectacular Flip In Seattle Race

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The 20th Seafair Trophy Hydroplane Race was run twice Sunday, but Billy Schumacher won it both times.

The race was rerun because of a spectacular flip that sent Bill Sterett, 24, Owensboro, Ky., to the hospital with minor injuries. Sterett was pushing his boat, Notre Dame, hard in the final turn of the last lap of the trophy heat when the boat started cartwheeling. Sterett was thrown clear but the Irish Lady, owned by Shirley M. McDonald of Detroit, nosed into Lake Washington and sank.

Namath Surgery Success; May Play By November

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The long recuperating process that Joe Namath has known three times before begins again today for the New York Jets' quarterback.

Namath, who reported to training camp with a renewed vigor this season after sitting out most of last season with a broken bone in his wrist, underwent knee surgery for the fourth time Sunday after damaging his knee Saturday night in a 28-24 loss to the Detroit Lions.

Namath, who hurt the knee attempting to tackle Mike Lucci after a Jet fumble, is expected to be out of action until mid-November.

"I like to be cautious, but we have reasons to be optimistic," said Dr. James A. Nicholas, the Jets' club physician and chiefs of orthopedics at Lenox Hill Hospital. "He'll play definitely next year and probably this year. If we get into the playoffs or Super Bowl, he will be an active part of the team.

"He'll probably be in uniform by the middle of November, but then there's the question of his timing," added Nicholas, who performed the three previous knee operations on Namath.

Al Woodall, who filled in for Namath when he broke the bone in his wrist early last season, will move in as the No. 1 man until "Namath returns with veteran Bob Davis as the backup man.

Namath had led the Jets to a 14-0 lead, completing 8-of-14 passes, one a touchdown to Matt Snell. But Lucci scored on the fumble recovery and Mel Farr plunged one-yard through a mass of stunned Jets to tie the game at the half.

Steve Owens plunged one-yard for a score to put Detroit ahead 21-14 before a 49-yard TD from Davis to Ed Bell and Bobby Howfield's 32-yard field goal gave New York a 24-21 edge. But Bill Munson passed 21 yards to Earl McCullough late in the game to give the Lions the victory.

In other games Saturday, Kansas City edged Baltimore 10-7. San Diego beat Washington 19-10, Cincinnati whipped Miami 27-10 and Chicago nipped Green Bay 2-0. San Francisco downed Cleveland 38-24 and Minnesota trimmed New England 17-10 in Sunday action while tonight Oakland plays host to Philadelphia and the New York Giants are at Houston.

Jan Stenerud kicked a 23-yard field goal and Len Dawson passed 17 yards to Lewis Porter for a score to lead the Chiefs past Baltimore. Ted Hendricks' 17-yard pass interception was the only Baltimore score.

John Hadl threw two third-quarter TD passed to Gary Garrison to lift San Diego over the Redskins and spoil George Allen's coaching debut with Washington. The 'Skins took a 10-0 lead before the Chargers bounced back on Dennis Partee's 36-yard field goal, a safety and TD passes of 5 and 32 yards from Hadl to Garrison.

Rookie quarterback Ken Anderson threw two TD passes in the fourth quarter as Cincinnati stopped the Dolphins. Anderson, a rookie from Augustana (Ill.), hit Doug Dressler with a 71yard scoring pass and then passed seven yards to Eric Crabtree for another touchdown.

Chicago forced Green Bay quarterback Frank Patrick out of the end zone in the third quarter for the game's only score. Patrick stepped over the end line before throwing an incomplete pass.

Jim Lindsay and Dave Osborn scored on short runs as Minnesota built a 17-0 lead and then held off New England's fourth quarter rally to beat the Patriots. The Pats' only TD came on a 22-yard pass interception by Clarence Scott.

Marin Swimmers Score Well In L.A.

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — Denise Ham and Rick DeMont produced the spotlight performances, but many other young Marin Aquatic Club swimmers shared a piece of the glory with seven local members competing in the finals of 11 events during the last two days of competition at the Los Angeles Swimming Invitationals Saturday and yesterday.

Miss Ham, 17, collected fourth, fifth and eighth place medals while posting best lifetime efforts in the 200-meter butterfly (2:27.7) 200 breaststroke (2:50.7) and the 400 individual medley (5:24.8).

DeMonte, a 15-year-old distance prodigy, placed fourth in the gruelling 1,500-meter freestyle in 16:53.2, 14 seconds under his previous best time. DeMont is the first Marin County boy to qualify for the National AAU Swimming Championships.

The women's freestyle relays improved on best lifetime clockings, with Maura Campion, Anne Engel, Jo Hislop and Miss Ham placing fifth in the 400 distance and ninth in the 800 meters. The 800 team improved its time by six seconds, and in doing so, qualified for the Nationals in Houston in three weeks. The 400 team, already qualified for the Nationals, lowered its time by nearly four seconds to 4:13.8.

Sue Secondo, 16, placed seventh and sixth in the 100 and 200 breaststroke respectively while posting career best times of 1:20.8 and 2:51.7.

Miss Hislop placed sixth in her sprint specialty, the 100 free (1:02.3), and then took fifth in the consolation final of the 400 I.M. She placed 13th overall in 5:32.0.

Seventeen-year-old Paul Cane was the other consolation finalist for Marin, taking 13th overall in the career best time of 2:39.6 for the 200 breast.

Other best times: Chris Averill, 100 breast, 1:17.7; 200 breast, 2:51.3; Jo Hislop, 200 free, 2:15.7; Rick DeMont, 200 free, 2:03.2; Spencer Eldred, 200 breast, 2:46.0; Scott Dicker, 200 breast, 2:48.6; Paul Cane, 100 breast, 1:13.6.

Fire Sidetracks Worker In Theft

A Blue Chip Stamp vending machine and about $25 worth of stamps were stolen last night from a San Anselmo service station while the attendant was extinguishing an arson fire in a restroom.

Officers said today Geofrey Pohman, an employee at Gene's Chevron Station at 101 Red Hill Avenue, was told of the fire at about 9 p.m. by a passerby.

Rushing to the restroom, he discovered hand towels burning in a waste basket. Pohman quickly put out the flames and returned to the gas pumps where he noticed the $50 machine and the passerby missing.

Buckley In Defense Of Agnew

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. James L. Buckley, conservative-N.Y., says President Nixon will have to keep Vice President Spiro T. Agnew on the ticket in 1972 to prevent a loss of conservative votes.

There has been speculation that Agnew might be replaced next year by Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, a registered Democrat and former Texas governor.

Buckley praised Agnew Sunday in a UPI Washington Window interview:

"Mr. Agnew has spoken out courageously and said a lot of things that needed to be said and I think that as a result of his often saying the unsayable he has satisfied a large bloc of the American public, maybe like a majority, that there is still some sanity in public office."

Buckley, a Republican who won his Senate seat running on the Conservative Party line last year, said he hopes to be a member of the New York delegation to the Republican National Convention next August.

Buckley said conservatives would be disappointed if Agnew is dropped next year, but he indicated he would support Connally if he became the vice presidential candidate.

He said Americans must not let Nixon's China trip lull them into thinking that the Chinese Communists no longer present a threat to U.S. security.

Press Club To Admit Women

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Members of the Milwaukee Press Club, the nation's oldest, voted to allow women reporters to join the club Sunday night.

Since 1885, when the club was founded, women have been banned from the hallowed halls within which male members of the journalistic profession sought solace from the woes of the day.

Sunday night more than 100 members voted to extend full privileges of the club to women.

Celibacy Cited In Priestly Defections

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Eighty-five per cent of the Roman Catholic priests currently asking to be relived of their duties cite enforced celibacy as a cause, according to a Vatican-ordered world survey.

The steadily growing number of defections from the priestly ministry and the reasons for it were traced in a 300-page document complied by Msgr. Emilio Colagiovanni, a Vatican sociologist and lawyer, at the order of the Vatican Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith.

The study, which took two years to compile, will be presented to the World Synod of Bishops to be held this autumn at the Vatican. The Synod is to discuss justice in the world and problems of the priesthood, but its agenda does not include discussion of priestly celibacy.

Italy's major Roman Catholic newspapers, L'Avvenire of Milan, devoted three lengthy articles to the Colagiovanni study in the past week.

The study embraces all dispensations from priestly duties granted from 1939 through the first three months of 1969. Priests who abandoned the ministry without seeking permission were not counted.

The study showed 563 men were granted permission to leave the priesthood but remain in the church between 1939 and 1963. In 1964, as new rules about dispensation took effect, 559 priests were granted permission to give up their duties. The figure rose to 1,189 in 1965, 1,258 in 1966, 1,670 in 1967 and 1,906 in 1968.

In the first three months of 1969 a total of 1,142 men left the priesthood. The study estimated that departures since March 31, 1969, brought to more than 13,000 the number of priests who have been given permission to give up their duties since 1939.

There now are 434,541 Roman Catholic priests on duty around the world.

The study shows the rate of priestly defections is highest in the Netherlands, involved in a struggle over modernization of the church, where 5.9 per cent of priests have left their ministry.

In Spain, 2.3 per cent of the priests have left the priesthood. The rate elsewhere in Europe averaged 1.9 per cent. In the United States the rate is 2.3 per cent.

L'Avvenire pointed out that Christian churches in the West all are having problems of ministry, particularly the "organized" faiths such as the Anglican church, the Lutherans and the Presbyterians.

The statistics showed that among reasons priests cited for leaving the church, and many cited more than one, celibacy occurred in 85 per cent of cases, psychological problems 14 per cent and loss of faith 13 per cent.

As the rate of defections rises, the average age of departing priests falls. In 1964 half thse priest seeking dispensation were 46 or over. By 1969 half were under 38.

Taxpayers Ask Open Salary Negotiations

The Marin County Taxpayers Association has called on Assemblyman William T. Bagley and state Sen. Peter H. Behr to introduce legislation repealing the law that makes possible private negotiations on salaries of public employees.

Donald M. Van Dyke of Novato, director of the association, Saturday wrote the two legislators calling attention to an editorial in the Independent-Journal last Thursday which advocated repeal of the law (Section 54957.6 of the California Government Code).

"The Marin County Taxpayers Association strongly endorses the position of the Independent-Journal and hereby requests that your office ask legislative counsel to draft the necessary legislation for repeal of this section," Van Dyke wrote to Behr and Bagley. "We also request that you undertake to introduce such legislation at the earliest possible time."
